Mediterranean Question and Categories Into Which Tonnage Shall Fall Remain Undetermined.

BY FRANK H. KING.
Associated Press Staff Writer.
LONDON, March 16.—(AP)—A four-hour conference at Chequers between Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Tardieu gave the naval conference a new lease on life tonight.

With A. V. Alexander, British first lord of the admiralty, and Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, and a whole crew of experts and advisers ranged beside them, the French and British premiers negotiated to bring together the viewpoints of France, Great Britain and the other powers.

The conversation is believed to have changed the whole complexion of the conference. New avenues have been opened for bringing France and Italy into a general agreement on armaments, which has already been achieved by the United States, Great Britain, and Japan.

Gloomy Clouds Gone.

The thick gloomy clouds that have hung over the negotiations for weeks were dispelled by a breath of fresh air from France. The return of the French premier to London yesterday was generally regarded as marking a crucial point in the negotiations for a five-power agreement, and the delegates tonight believed that the stalemate would be broken.

Premier Tardieu was elated on returning to London from Chequers with M. Briand.

"I am convinced we shall come to satisfactory results. The common work is going on," he declared.

The conference will start to work tomorrow morning when M. Tardieu will meet Prime Minister MacDonald at 9 o'clock, and Secretary of State Stimson at 11 o'clock.

Mr. Stimson, Ambassador Morrow and the other American delegates, who played important roles last week in trying to break the Franco-Italian deadlock on the question of naval parity, will enter the new week of negotiations in the spirit of seeing the conference through to a successful conclusion if it is in their power.

Foreign Minister Briand went to the conference at Chequers today direct from a breakfast table talk with Ambassador Morrow. While Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Tardieu, and Mr. Alexander and M. Briand were bent over their tasks at Chequers, Mr. Stimson anxiously awaited the result at Stansmore.

Tardieu Sure of Success.

M. Tardieu issued a statement on the progress made.

"The French and the British delegates have examined the whole conference situation together. We have applied ourselves to points that interest our countries more particularly.

"On the one hand, we have specified the questions about which an agreement is either certain or easy. On the other hand, and more especially,

CANDIDATES PLAN WHIRLWIND FINISH

Opponents in County Race To Hold Two Big Mass Meetings Tonight.

BY HERMAN D. HANCOCK.
Half a dozen candidates, composing two rival tickets for the three commissioners' posts on which about 50,000 Fulton county voters will cast ballots Wednesday in the democratic primary, Sunday night prepared for whirlwind finishes and both camps predicted victory.

The race has been an interesting one and much interest has been aroused as various charges and counter charges have been flung from many stumps throughout the county.

Pitted against Paul S. Etheridge, Dr. William L. Gilbert and Walter C. Hendrix, incumbents, is a united ticket composed of Dr. Dan Griffith, Nelson T. Spratt and Alex Whitley.

Incumbent commissioners will hold a gigantic rally beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the Fulton County High school, while opponents have slated a mass meeting at the Atlanta city auditorium beginning at 8 o'clock.

The gatherings tonight are expected to be the supreme efforts of both factions in the final drive for ballots and all their friends were urged to attend.

On the eve of the meeting tonight, Dr. Gilbert, who is chairman of the Fulton county commission at the present time, issued a statement attacking the other candidates and their financial crisis which the county faces.

County Finances.

Dr. Gilbert reiterated a statement that Fulton county is in excellent condition financially, that the commission as constituted at the present time has contributed largely to the phenomenal growth and prosperity of the county through a policy of sympathetic co-operation and that "any financial crisis which the county faces is only a fantastic concoction of opposition candidates who would ride into office over the prostrate form of this county itself and over the blasted reputations of the incumbents."

"There has never been a time in my memory when the financial condition of Fulton county was better or I might say as good as it is at present," he said.

"Every single obligation which the county owes has been paid and there is over $1,000,000 in Atlanta banks from the recent loan which is less than one-half the estimated receipts for the year 1930.

"Does that look like the county is bankrupt?"

"The majority of the present commission has insisted on what we believe to be a sane, helpful administration of county affairs and has operated to bring scores of large industries to Atlanta and Fulton county which added many millions of dollars to the payrolls of the state.

Improvement Work.

"More than $1,400,000 has been spent in the past two years in street, viaduct and other improvements within the limits of the borough of Atlanta, and thousands of dollars in projects inside the limits of other boroughs through a policy of helpful consideration and progressive sympathy toward the incorporated municipalities within the county.

"We have set up a fund of $30,000 to help reconstruct the Forsyth street viaduct, have agreed to assist in the widening and repaving of Whitehall street and now are engaged in repaving of West Peachtree street, which soon will be completed. Whitehall and West Peachtree streets are

A misdemeanor case, the lowest the court handles, will be called for trial by Superior Court Judge Humphries at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning but the eyes of all Atlanta will be focused on it. It is the case of the state against Harry York, councilman for the sixth ward, alleged important figure in the municipal graft ring.

York's business associate, Jack White, labeled "fixer" by the grand jury, and City Purchasing Agent W. P. Price. It is the first of 22 cases emerging from grand jury investigation into the conduct of municipal affairs to go on trial.

Just which of the cases docketed would be placed on trial had not been determined Sunday night. York has been indicted individually, jointly with White and jointly with White and Price. The witnesses for the prosecution have been subpoenaed in all of these cases, indicating that Solicitor-General John A. Boykin will not decide on the case to be put at issue until court has been convened.

A total of 136 talismen have been summoned. From these the jury is to be selected. In one of the indictments York is accused on 12 counts, and the others the counts are fewer. It is the first of 22 cases emerging from grand jury investigation into the conduct of municipal affairs to go on trial.

Blow-Out Blamed.

According to information reported to Grady hospital, where Mrs. Askew was removed after a fire blew out the car, the automobile, driven by Mr. Askew, was moving along at a fair rate of speed when a fire blew out. Mr. Askew applied the brakes quickly and the car skidded across the street, crashed into a telephone pole, Mrs. Askew and Mr. Askew were thrown from the car, the car was crushed, the rear seat, where Mrs. Askew was seated, was pinned under the wreckage. The car was completely demolished.

Millions Attend Russian Churches

Campaign of Godless Momentarily Checked by Stalin Permits Unmolested Worship.

BY JAMES A. MILLS.
Associated Press Correspondent.
MOSCOW, March 16.—(AP)—While millions in other lands prayed today for Russia's legions of Christian faithful, the militant atheist society of Russia, the league of the godless, prepared for a more intensive assault against God and the churches during the approaching Easter period.

Even so great an atheist as Joseph Stalin, "the strong man of Russia," has issued strict orders that any communist party worker, or village soviet official, found guilty of using violent methods in the party's fight against religion shall be severely punished.

Churches Well Attended.

All Moscow's churches were well attended at services today, the government having at no time attempted to prevent individuals from freely taking part in their religious rites. Throughout the nation all pews were full.

Most Christians here, however, see a dark future for their faith if the government continues to carry out its present plan of forbidding the teaching of a religious faith to those under the age of 18.

They say that if this is enforced it will literally bury the faith of the church in Russia, especially since the communist party and the government are entirely atheist. No person guilty of using violent methods in the party's fight against religion shall be severely punished.

Altheist World Object.

The "Village God in One," official organ for the dissemination of atheism among the peasantry, declares in a recent issue that "the soviet union is the basis for the atheistic movement throughout the world."

"The growth of atheism in soviet Russia creates a ground for the spreading of atheism everywhere else," it declared.

The Moscow union of militant atheists, addressing the capitalistic world, says, "you will not frighten or dismay the soviet union of workers with your religious crusades as you have so often attempted to frighten us with your diplomatic notes and wild attacks on our foreign representatives."

"You will not hinder the building of socialism or the cultural growth of our country. You will not be able to protect the kulak (rich peasant) and the capitalist from the soviet union, so close to your Christian heart. Religion and collective farms cannot exist together."

Another manifesto, by the Moscow Steam Engine works, says, "we will know that the bourgeoisie in their struggle against us will attract every one to their ranks, including God and the pope. They realize that their grave dangers are approaching and that neither God nor pope will save them from destruction."

"We intend to intensify the irreconcilable struggle with God and religion, which are our class enemies," it declared.

The militant atheist society announced that it had concluded an agreement for "socialistic competition" with an organization of 9,000 atheists in the Ruhr district of Germany. The Germans will attempt to tear away from the church before March 30, two thousand German worshippers; to collect 2,000 marks for the purchase of tractors for the soviet union; to recruit 500 new members for German atheist societies and to recruit 100 new members for the German communist party.

The Moscow atheists for their part agree to collect enough funds to build a whole fleet of tractors.

Body of Printer Found in Woods

Suicide of Emory W. Wiley, 33, Blamed on Dependancy Over Health.

With a bullet wound through his temple, county police Sunday afternoon found the lifeless body of Emory W. Wiley, 33, printer, employed by the Ben Franklin Press and living at 1811 Gordon road, S. W., in a patch of woods about a hundred feet from Crook road, a highway branching off from the Mill road about 5 miles from Atlanta.

County police who discovered the body found a small quantity of whiskey beside him and expressed the opinion that he had been drinking.

Police found Wiley's car Sunday morning and assumed that it had been stolen. They ascertained ownership and brought it to the house his home address where they found his wife fearful that he had killed himself. Returning to the spot, a small posse began a search of the woods and soon found his body about 100 yards from the road. Only one shot had been fired from the pistol.

DEATH FOLLOWS LOSS OF POWER BY ONLY 7 WEEKS

Sudden Attack Comes After Period of Rapid Convalescence From Strain of Overwork.

NO STATE HONORS WILL MARK BURIAL

Often Expressed Premonition That He Would Never Again See Country He Ruled Comes True

PARIS, March 16.—(AP)—Miguel Primo de Rivera, Orbaneja, Marques de Estella, Spanish grandee, and for seven years dictator of Spain, lay dead tonight in the modest Latin quarter hotel where in the '90s he spent what he always considered the happiest days of his life as a student at the Sorbonne.

The former dictator was stricken by an affection of the heart this morning and died alone in his room at 11 a. m., less than seven weeks after relinquishing the supreme power in Spain.

Death broke his voluntary exile in Paris with the rapidity of a stroke of lightning. Primo's hand was stretched forth in an effort to reach an electric button to summon his valet. His broken reading-glasses lay beside him.

Premonition of Death.

Perhaps the former dictator had a premonition of impending death, for as he kissed his daughters, Carmen and Pilar, early today he said, "Very well, go attend mass. I feel much better and am going to dress, but be sure not to return too late." He had expressed the belief that he never would see Spain again.

Mindful of his request, the young women went to his room on returning from church and to their amazement and sorrow, found him lying dead. They sent for Miguel Primo de Rivera, who in turn called the family physician, Dr. Alberto Bandelac de Pariente. After examining the body, the doctor said that the former dictator had been dead for half an hour.

He died on the very eve of his departure for Wiesbaden, Germany, where he was going to take the cure for diabetes. He had awakened feeling very well and looking forward to a farewell visit to his physicians who allowed him to offer.

At the hotel this afternoon, for some time his general condition had been steadily improving.

A priest from the Spanish mission in Paris immediately went to the hotel and said the prayers for the dead.

Notables Pay Respects.

Tonight, his body lay in state, with a serene visage encased in a cowl formerly worn by the monks of the Carmel congregation. His body was draped in a coarse woolen fabric, similar to those used in ancient Spanish monasteries. In his neatly manicured hands was a huge rosary of black granite.

His features, on which could be discerned the slightest trace of a smile, and his relaxation of his body gave the impression that death had come in a sudden shock, without a tremor of pain, and that the ex-dictator's busy life had finally ended in calm.

He looked, however, 10 years older.

Wickersham and Mitchell To Talk on Dry Law Today

Attorney-General, Commission Head Will Be Heard Behind Locked Doors.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Just what the Hoover law enforcement commission has learned about the effectiveness of the dry law will be sought tomorrow by the senate judiciary committee from Chairman Wickersham.

Both Attorney-General Mitchell and Mr. Wickersham will be before the committee to give their views on the resolutions proposing a senate investigation of the administration of the prohibition laws, but they will speak behind closed doors.

It is the first time any member of the 8-month-old law enforcement commission has been before the senate and there are some inquisitive senators awaiting the opportunity to question Mr. Wickersham.

Both Mr. Mitchell and Wickersham are expected to oppose the senate inquiry into dry enforcement. But it seems certain they will be asked some pertinent questions about their findings of law enforcement under the dry law.

Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, is the author of the resolution for an investigation of the administration of the prohibition act. Senator Borah, of Idaho, who has severely assailed enforcement conditions throughout the country, is also a member of the committee.

While the dry-dominated committee is divided on the question of a senate inquiry, there is every indication that the foes of the Norris resolution have the upper hand. It is not likely that the resolution will be voted on tomorrow, however.

Underway Wednesday, the prohibition commission in the house will get under way again Wednesday with the drys preparing to conclude their presentation of testimony at the house judiciary committee hearings on repeal and modification of the prohibition act.

Two days and a half at least remain in the case of the commission against repeal, but indications were today that they might not be satisfied with so short a time, and that either Wednesday or Thursday the hearings are resumed, or later the committee would be asked to extend their time.

The dry forces have the assurance of Chairman Graham that they would receive all the time needed to finish their case and they have not only kept track of the total time occupied on the stand by their own witnesses and by those of the wet side but they have computed the time taken up by committee members in cross-examination.

Meanwhile the prohibition controversy in the house will get under way again Wednesday with the drys preparing to conclude their presentation of testimony at the house judiciary committee hearings on repeal and modification of the prohibition act.

Fisher to Testify.
The testimony of Irving Fisher, professor of economics at Yale, will be presented by the drys, whether the professor can appear or not. Every effort is being made by them to secure his attendance at the hearings, as the committee has asked that in view of his prominence as a dry advocate he permit himself to be questioned.

Last week Chairman Graham asked Mrs. Yost not to have his testimony read into the record unless Fisher were absolutely unable to attend, but he deferred until this week a definite decision on whether a reading would be permitted if the professor could not come. As many other statements have been read, and as the drys are especially keen that his opinions should be added to the record, his acceptance is anticipated.

One witness whose appearance seemed definite was the Rev. Jason Noble Pierce, pastor of the First Congregational church of Washington, who last week received the sanction of his church's committee on law observance for his testimony.

Many Hear Talk On Stained Glass At High Museum
More than 200 people attended the lecture given at the High Museum of Art on Sunday afternoon by Mrs. Thomas English.

Mrs. English's subject was "Stained Glass Windows," and she illustrated her talk with some new and excellent slides, showing both new colored glass windows in America and many of the famous windows in the old world cathedrals.

Mrs. English, the wife of the dean of the English department at Emory University, is the daughter of William and Ann Lee Willet, of the famous Willet Studios in Philadelphia. The Willet Studios are perhaps the most famous makers of stained glass designs in America. Mrs. English's parents doing practically all the designing there. Many of their designs are in the buildings at West Point Military academy and at Annapolis and other government institutions.

The exhibition of works by Georgia artists is drawing large attendance at the museum daily. The museum is open, free to the public at all times, the daily hours being from 10 to 4 and on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings.

Wilbur Asks Churches To End Illiteracy
WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Secretary Wilbur today appealed to all evangelical bodies in the United States to join in the drive to eliminate illiteracy.

The "shocking facts" of illiteracy are being called to the attention of church organizations now, he said, in order that plans can be made at the annual meetings this spring for active participation in the campaign sponsored by the government. In his letter, Secretary Wilbur said: "The national advisory committee on illiteracy, appointed with the approval of President Hoover is stimulating interest in the campaign now being carried on in 30 states to reduce adult illiteracy before the 1930 census is taken."

"This effort is preliminary to a nation-wide drive which will be undertaken soon after the census bureau assembles the facts upon existing illiteracy. The success of the campaign will depend in large measure upon the active co-operation of all the educational and religious agencies in every community."

Wilbur said that the 1920 census reported 4,931,905 persons 10 years of age and over unable to write in any language. Three millions of these are whites of whom 1,242,572 are native born.

DEFENSE OF DOHENY TO GET INNING TODAY

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—Edward L. Doheny, wealthy oil operator, tomorrow will open his defense to an indictment charging that he bribed Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, to award his company a lease to the Elk Hills, California, naval oil reserve.

Chief efforts of the defense are expected to be directed toward trying to prove that it was the navy department under Secretary Denby and not the interior department under Secretary Fall, which directed execution of the contract to Doheny's Pan-American Company for construction of naval oil storage facilities at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii. This contract contained a clause giving Doheny's company preference to any land in the naval oil reserve, which the government decided to lease. Fall executed the lease of the reserve to the company a year after Doheny sent him $100,000 in cash.

The defense also expected to try to show that the money was a loan to an old friend for which Doheny received a note payable upon demand and that it was no connection with the lease. The defense contends that Doheny did not hear of the Pearl Harbor plan of the navy until months after he had made the loan.

Doheny will take the stand and submit to cross-examination. He is expected to repeat his former testimony that his company bid on the contract, after once refusing to do so, only after a naval officer had told him secret reports indicated that a navy of a Pacific power was becoming a menace to the west coast of the United States.

Frank J. Hogan, chief counsel for Doheny, and J. J. Cotter, his associate, declined to express an opinion as to the length of time the defense would require but it was believed they would finish in four court days.

The government's case against Doheny was completed Saturday, less than three court days after it started. In those three days Owen J. Roberts and Atlee Pomeroy, special government prosecutors, placed before the jury of three women and nine men testimony and documents intended to show that Doheny had paid Fall $100,000 on November 30, 1921, and a year later had received a lease to the Elk Hills reserve.

The government placed Doheny's own story of the financial transaction with Fall before the jury by reading for hours the oil man's testimony before the senate oil committee in 1924.

Stress was placed by the prosecutors upon the vigorous examination and cross-examination of Doheny by United States senators who were investigating the oil scandals of the Harding administration.

The prosecutors also produced testimony that while Fall did not handle oil leases during his regime he did execute the lease to Doheny.

DR. WILLIAM D. ROPER PASSES AT HOSPITAL

Prominent Atlantan Victim of Brief Illness; Funeral Rites Today.

Dr. William D. Roper, 62, prominent Atlantan, died at a private hospital early Sunday morning after a month's illness. Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon from the residence, 197 Poplar Circle, N. E., with Dr. Wallace Rogers, assisted by the Rev. R. L. Russell, officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery.

Dr. Roper was born May 18, 1870, in Pickens, S. C. He came to Atlanta about 35 years ago and has been one of the city's best-known practicing physicians.

For the past eight years he had maintained an office in his drugstore at 664 Whitehall street, receiving most of his patients there and making but few calls. A month ago he was taken ill with influenza and had almost entirely recovered when double pneumonia set in.

In 1899 he married Miss Lois Cagle, of Lithonia. He was a member of the Methodist church at Gainesville, Ga., where he lived for a time before coming to Atlanta.

Dr. Roper is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. R. D. Wilson, and Miss Glenna Roper; two sons, William D. Roper, Jr., and Mark H. Roper; two sisters, Mrs. Susie Webb, of Birmingham, and Miss Vesta Roper, of Chicago, and six brothers, James, Walker, Charlie, Frank, and Balis Roper, of Birmingham, and Ed Roper, of Buford. H. M. ## U. S. Anti-Aircraft Battery On March

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—A thousand-mile march from Fort Monroe, Va., to Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, Ill., will be begun May 15 by the 61st coast artillery regiment, which is composed entirely of anti-aircraft batteries.

In line with the recently adopted policy of splitting up the coast artillery into units for coast defense and anti-aircraft exclusively, the regiment is to be stationed in Illinois to facilitate training of reserve officers and national guard units in the central area of the country.

It will be the first coast artillery unit to take a station in the interior of the country, and its overland march is to be made occasion for public inspection of the anti-aircraft batteries in many large cities. The route to be chosen is expected to take the regiment through some of the principal cities of Virginia, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois. If possible it will give demonstrations at some of the overnight stops, of its guns firing blank ammunition while the battery searchlights spot and hold airplanes engaged in theoretical bombing of the inland cities.

A part of the regiment will spend the summer at Camp Knox, Ky., for training national guard units from the central states.

The same celery as it came from the Hydrator the following morning. The magic action of the Hydrator has restored the celery to its original state—fresh, crisp, delicious.

ALL this week we're giving a special demonstration of the Frigidaire Hydrator. We're showing what an amazing difference this new compartment makes in vegetables. We're showing how it revives wilted celery—how it restores lost crispness to lettuce and radishes—how it keeps tomatoes firm and delicious.

And, in addition to the Hydrator, we're demonstrating the latest cabinets in Porcelain-on-steel and the famous "Frigidaire Cold Control." We are showing how the "Cold Control" cuts down freezing time—how it increases the variety of frozen delicacies you can make.

Scores of new salads and desserts

The Hydrator and the "Cold Control" enable you to prepare scores of unusual salads and desserts—delicacies you've probably never enjoyed before. Read about them in the recipe books we're presenting to all our guests. Get your copies now. And by all means taste the salads and desserts now being served in our showroom.

Stop in today. We're open evenings until 10 o'clock during this special demonstration.

News of Constitution's Prize Offer Spreads Fast

Public Responds Quickly for $25,000 in Awards, Automobiles, Radios and Cash Included.

The rising tide of enthusiasm rolled up by The Atlanta Constitution's offer of $25,000 in prize automobiles, radios and cash commissions for spare time effort is bringing new entries into the campaign every day.

Energetic men and women from Atlanta and surrounding territory have mailed, telephoned and turned in personally their nominations to insure an early start. So extraordinary is this opportunity to profit on a large scale by a little spare time effort that this campaign has quickly become a leading topic of conversation, not only in the city of Atlanta but also throughout the territory in which this newspaper circulates.

There are to be no losers in this campaign. Every one active in the credit quest will receive either an automobile, a radio, or cash commissions. It does not cost a cent to enter or to share in the awards. Credits alone will determine the winners. Credits are given upon entering the campaign and thereafter by securing both new and renewal subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution.

Awards of High Worth.

Topping the array of awards to be distributed among entrants in the campaign are 15 enclosed cars. A $3,120 Pierce Arrow sedan will be awarded as the first grand prize. A $2,835 Franklin sedan will be given as the second grand prize. A $1,615 Nash sedan, a $1,405 Reo sport sedan, a $1,235 Marmon Roosevelt sedan, a $1,180 Chrysler brougham, a $965 Pontiac sedan and $935 Essex coach will be given as division awards. Three cars to each of the two divisions. Five $895 Ford tudor sedans, ten $174.50 Atwater Kent radios and ten $146.50 Atwater Kent radios will be given as district awards.

The territory covered by The Atlanta Constitution has been divided into two divisions and these divisions have been divided into five districts each. By the arrangement in the awarding of the prizes, each division and each district is assured automobiles, entry blank and a cash commission not winning an award, liberal cash commissions will be paid.

Work Anywhere.

Candidates may secure their subscriptions anywhere. They are not restricted in obtaining subscriptions in their own district. The first step towards winning one of the awards is to fill out the entry blank and send or bring it to the campaign department of The Atlanta Constitution. The entry blank appears in the page campaign advertisement in this issue of The Constitution and it is good for 5,000 free credits. Upon receipt of the entry blank the person entering will be given blanks for securing subscriptions.

A golden opportunity immediately to obtain a substantial credit position is contained in the offer of 10,000 extra credits to be given on the first subscription each candidate turns in together with the 5,000 credit and the regular credits assigned on the subscription.

The start is the thing. Turn now to the entry blank, clip it out, fill in and send or bring it to the campaign department today.

Irish Bond Holders To Get 58 Per Cent

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—Holders of the bonds of the defunct Irish republic will receive dividends of 58 per cent of their claims, under supreme court decision made public today by Justice Curtis A. Peters.

The decision approves recommendation of the receivers and directs the immediate distribution among 129,031 claimants of the $2,539,783.00 balance on hand, out of an aggregate of $3,443,108.00 based on 160,705 subscriptions. About two months will be required to complete the distributions.

Credit Men To Hear Gov. Hardman Tonight

Finances of the state of Georgia will be the subject of an address which will be delivered before the Atlanta Association of Credit Men at their monthly meeting at the Atlanta Athletic Club at 6:30 o'clock tonight. Governor L. G. Hardman will be the speaker. There will be several entertainment features in addition. Officials of firms having members in the association are invited.

Smart and Clever Comedy at Erlanger

When the curtain rises tonight at the Erlanger theater, that portion of Atlanta theatergoers who are fortunate enough to be in the opening night audience, will see one of the most modernistic and at the same time amusing comedies that has ever been written for the stage.

In selecting "Little Accident" for the second production by the Erlanger Theater Players, Manager Lewis Haase and Director Harry McKee chose a vehicle that is going to provide lots of conversation before the week is out. "Little Accident" deals with a couple of nice, modern young people who fall passionately in love and then separate. Later, on the eve of the boy's marriage to another nice girl, he gets a wire to report to a maternity hospital in Chicago at once. There he finds his erstwhile sweetheart and "Little Accident."

How the baby helps to solve the problem of these two and bring about a happy solution to the situation, provides the basis for the most amusing and cleverest comedy in years.

The Erlanger Theater Players are augmented for this week with a couple of new members of the company, while Helen Louise Lewis, Butler Hixon, the leads, and the rest of the splendid company, have parts which will serve to augment the magnificent reputation they achieved last week.

Stage Stars Arrive For Metropolitan

More than 40 performers arrived yesterday on train and by motor for the Metropolitan theater which, starting today, will present both stage and screen attractions. Art (Skinny) Candler, the laughable comedian registered in Sunday with his gang of 30, as well as the vaudeville folks on the bill, headed by the famous black-face, Emmett Miller. The pretty chorus of dancing girls also arrived to add their youthful voices and nimble toes to the productions.

Rudy Brown and his orchestra are already here, having been a radio feature all season. With the local crews of stage employees and operators on the job the Metropolitan is ready to open to, they expect, the largest crowds seen in the popular playhouse in years. Popular prices will be in vogue at all performances and there will be four complete shows daily, running continuously from noon until closing.

A.C.L. Passenger Train Hits Empty Coaches

TAMPA, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Atlantic Coast Line passenger train number 91, from Jacksonville, and a train made up of empty passenger coaches collided head-on here this afternoon, derailed the coal tender and baggage car of the empty train. No one was injured. Railroad officials were investigating the cause of the accident.

Pouters and Whiners Scored by McElveen

"This world will never be saved by those who pout and whine. A cheerful sinner is never so wearisome as a hopeless saint. Croakers never aid in extending the kingdom of God on this earth." So said the Rev. Dr. W. T. McElveen to the United Congregational church at its Sunday morning service at the Woman's Club. He was preaching about "Living Hopes."

He said: "A live hope is not a reverie, and it is more than a noble day dream. A reverie is very apt to fritter away into a vague longing."

Indeed, a reverie may easily become intellectual dissipation: aye, it may be a form of mental laziness. And good wishes never blossom into attainments and accomplishment unless there is the determined push of a strong will in them or behind them. Don't worry. God will not be dethroned nor will religion be abolished. Our day is bad enough. Conditions in Atlanta are very far from what they ought to be, but there have been worse days than ours, and cities that were more politically debauched than ours, and those evil days have been generated, and those iniquitous cities have been morally cleansed. Dirty politicians and stupid majorities cannot arrest for any longer period the march of progress."

NATIONAL TITLE WEEK

Held in the interests of the Attorneys and Realtors of America

During the last few months the large insurance companies, savings banks, and loan associations have been investing more and more of their funds in first mortgage securities.

The national organization of the New York Title and Mortgage Company believes this is a very opportune time to demonstrate the advantages of National Title Insurance Policies.

During the week of March 17, attorneys and realtors will be called upon by agents of the New York Title and Mortgage Company, who will show just why and how a National Title Insurance Policy is a great asset in the sale of real estate.

CHICAGO GUNMAN DIES AFTER PISTOL BATTLE

NEW ORLEANS, March 16.—(AP)—A Chicago gunman and a New Orleans gambler fought a death battle early today in a wild running automobile that ended in the death of the gunman and the blackjacking of the gambler.

The story of the battle came to light at 6:30 o'clock this morning when the police received a telephone call that a dead man was in an alley behind 5019 St. Claude avenue. Recalling that at 3 a. m. they had a report from Charles H. Wagin that he had shot at a holding man, the police roused Wagin from sleep at his home.

The dead gunman was identified as John Horner, native of Clinton, Iowa, but more recently from Chicago. Wagin said he jumped on his running board as he was leaving a gambling house at 2 a. m. and asked for a ride into town. As they drove along, he said, Horner shoved a pistol into his ribs.

Instead of putting up his hands Wagin grabbed the muzzle of the pistol and fought furiously in the car as it sped along out of control. The pistol went off but the bullet went wild. In their struggles the door was kicked open and both men rolled out in a clench. Wagin finally got the weapon and Horner jerked a blackjack and began beating him over the head. Wagin emptied the pistol at the gunman as he fled down the alley.

Not knowing whether he had shot his assailant, Wagin found his car on the side of the road, drove to the city, reported to the police, had his wounds dressed at a hospital and went home. He said he had $200 in his pocket when he left the gambling house and believed Horner saw the money before he left.

National Poll Shows 'Paramount Problems'

The administration of justice and prohibition are the two leading "paramount problems" to be considered in the United States during 1930, according to a poll of the membership of the National Council of the National Economic League.

Administration of justice, with 2,200 votes, is the first "paramount problem" to be considered this year and prohibition is second with 2,068 votes. Issues closely related to prohibition, "lawlessness and disrespect for law" and "crime," the former with 1,699 votes and the second with 1,642 votes, are third and fourth in importance. Law enforcement, with 1,573 votes, is fifth. World peace, dropping to 1,235 votes, is sixth.

Freedom of speech received 411 votes and stabilization of business an even 400. Public utilities, lobbying and the foreign trade policy all received less than 400 votes each as an issue to be settled.

Taft's Church Pew Marked By Flag

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(AP)—A single flag was displayed at the staff this Sabbath, as a special tribute to the man for whom the national emblem dropped at half-staff elsewhere throughout the nation and its territories.

It faced an empty pew, as an evidence that the memory of William Howard Taft still lives in that place where for 24 years he worshipped.

Every pew of the sanctuary was crowded, save one. At the front of the room, to the left of the pulpit, that pew was occupied only by a wreath of palm draped in deep purple resting at its entrance.

An impressive ceremony, but simple as befitting the faith of the former president and chief justice, marked the first Sabbath assemblage of his fellow worshippers since the funeral services there last Tuesday.

Laundry-washed clothes help children keep well

TO GIVE them every possible health protection—make sure of sterilized cleanliness in the family wash. These plants wash every piece sweet and clean, sterilize it. Wet Wash does the washing only, but does that perfectly. Every piece is washed gently in mild suds and hundreds of gallons of fresh soft water. The thorough washing sterilizes every piece. The bundle comes back to you slightly damp, ready for ironing. You can set on finer washing service at any price.

Thrift-T washes everything, from the flat work, but returns the wearing apparel slightly moist, ready for immediate ironing at home. The washing is done with the same care as in Wet Wash, with every piece positively sterilized. Flat pieces, like sheets, towels and table linen, are ironed beautifully smooth and ready to fold.

Dry Wash washes every piece, from flat work, and returns the wearing apparel to you dry and unironed. (It is sometimes called Rough Dry Service.) The washing is gentle and thorough as in all Family Wash Services. Flat pieces come back to you immaculately ironed.

Prim-Press finishes everything exquisitely. All pieces are washed sweet and clean and sterilized. Then they are carefully and beautifully ironed by expert hand ironers, to give the daintiest possible finish. In Prim-Press, laundering is truly a fine art.

Service Station Name Is Changed

Service being rendered by the Jones service station, located at the junction of Whitehall, Paters and Park streets, is showing business returns.

Located conveniently for the many thousands of car drivers who daily travel these busy thoroughfares, the station has made preparation to serve the autoist with the best in gas, oil, batteries, tires and alignment.

The proprietor, M. P. Jones, numbers his friends by all who know him. He recently decided to change the name of his station from the Hartford to the Jones service station, and is assuring his friends that car service is exemplified in all the name implies at his station.

He sells Standard gas and oils, Delco batteries and Goodrich Silver-town cord tires. The tire department is a very important one in the Jones service station.

Two Convicts Flee Tennessee Prison

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 16.—(AP)—Two negro prisoners escaped from the state penitentiary here last night. They were Fred Mason, 22, Shelby county, and Alex Pendleton, Nashville. They made their escape by climbing between two high voltage electric wires from the chapel to the main prison roof and lowering themselves over the prison wall.

Warden A. A. McCorkle said it was one of the most spectacular prison escapes here in many years. About 500 prisoners were attending a picture show in the chapel and Mason and Pendleton broke the bars of a window behind them and climbed six feet up a wall to the roof ledge.

A rope was used in lowering themselves from the wall.

Miller Lumber Co. Reports Sales Good in Bird Roofs

The Miller Lumber Company, of 1177 Ridge avenue, S. W., reports extra good sales on Bird's roofing in and around Atlanta, both in the roll roofing and shingle designs.

This firm is highly gratified with the many pleased customers Bird's roofs are making, and the customers are pointing with pride to their neighbors that they have their houses covered with Bird's roofs.

These Bird roofs are made by the pioneer composition roof makers and the experience and organization of five generations of the Bird family is shown in every square of roofing that leaves any one of their large factories, and the Miller Lumber Company has a guarantee that the roofing will wear a long number of years and the longer the roof is on a building the better the owner will like it.

Due to extra effort and care in designing, the Bird Roofing Company has brought out many beautiful patterns in shingle roofs. It has designed various patterns that are suited to many different types of buildings, and the Miller Lumber Company has in stock many of these patterns.

To put the cheapest roofing on a building is like putting the cheapest tire on an automobile, they both do all right for a while but must be replaced soon. In putting a new roof on any building the big part of the cost is in the labor and if ordinary cheap roofing must be replaced several years before it is necessary to recover with Bird's roofing, then the few cents saved in putting on the cheap roofing now is dollars wasted later on.

In addition to Bird's roofing and many other products, including wall boards and building papers, the company has a large stock of Bird's roofing cement. This plastic cement is recognized as a superior roof cement and is made to quickly stop all kinds of small leaks in roofs that are in fairly good condition but leak in several places.

In the regular building line the Miller Lumber Company carries a good stock of everything that goes to make the modern building of the day.

Cylinder Grinding Co. Expands Activities

One of the busiest automobile re-conditioning places around Atlanta at this time is the Camp Cylinder Grinding Company of 173 Houston street, northeast.

Joe Camp is one of the first practical machinists to take up this important phase of automobile work in this part of the country. He and his associates have a large, well equipped shop and have special machines to grind cylinders and valves for all makes of cars. They have a good organization of skilled, experienced mechanics and they need but a few hours to make these vital parts of an old car perform again like new.

W. M. Leake is manager of the auto repairing department and Mr. Leake is rated as one of the most skillful auto repairmen in and around Atlanta. Before the World War Mr. Leake was employed to keep up the fleet of trucks of a large corporation and has been in business for himself for more than 10 years. When Mr. Camp moved from his old location last fall to his present one he induced Mr. Leake to join with him later on.

Mr. Leake and his assistants work on all cars and guarantee all work they do. In fact their best customers are those whom they have done some kind of automobile work for in former location, and no doubt more of their friends will be pleased to know that they are now located and equipped to render better service than ever.

The hookup between Mr. Camp and Mr. Leake is very good, for both of them, for everything about the machinery of a car that does not run like it should can be made, repaired or replaced by the two experts. The car owner also profits in time and money by having one or both of them do his work, as the guarantee of good workmanship is back of every car in any way repaired.

Dairy Men in Good Position To Observe General Health

"Dairy men are probably in the best position to notice the general health of more people in this country than those in any other trade or profession," says W. W. Abercrombie, prominent dairyman near College Park.

"The reason for this is that we make daily contact with more people than any trade or profession, and when there is a sudden increase of supply requested by the average family, we know pretty well that someone's health is not what it should be in that family."

"Here is a conclusive fact," continued Mr. Abercrombie, "that should be known by everybody. If you are run down, or in poor health, good fresh milk is one of the first things your doctor prescribes for your diet. Now if your doctor prescribes wholesome fresh milk to help you regain your normal health, then drinking a liberal amount of milk two or more times a day when in normal health will keep you well."

"Now as to the real cost of milk, if the price be 20 or 22 cents a quart, that is cheap for it, when you take into consideration the difference in health cannot be measured by the dollar mark."

Mr. Abercrombie is one of the oldest and most successful dairy men around Atlanta, having been continuously in the business for nearly a quarter of a century, and his large farm and well kept buildings attest to the fact that he is a successful dairyman.

Mr. Abercrombie came to the conclusion over 20 years ago that by raising the better breed of cows and taking extra care of them, he would be able to sell his customers the best milk that money could buy, and he then began to gradually improve his stock, buildings and equipment and he now has more than 75 registered cattle headed by a prize-winning Guernsey bull.

His barns are large, well-drained and ventilated and washed twice a day, as he says, if you take great care to see that cows produce extra good milk, then it is equally important to see that the milk is cared for and delivered as clean as it is humanly possible to do so, and is what he and his organization of good animal husbandry men expect to do.

SAVANNAH WOMAN
HELD IN SHOOTING

Mrs. Willa Mae Radford in Hospital With Bullet Wound After Argument.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 16.—(AP) Mrs. E. D. Culpepper, 39, was held here today on a charge of assault with intent to murder, while Mrs. Willa Mae Radford lay in a hospital seriously wounded.

Police said the shooting followed an argument over charges by Mrs. Culpepper and her mother, Mrs. W. J. Rogers, 40, that the elder woman's husband, W. J. Rogers, had given Mrs. Radford a dress as a present.

Officers said Mrs. Radford accused Mrs. Culpepper and her mother of lying when they came to her home and made the charge. Mrs. Culpepper, they said, fired after telling Mrs. Radford "You can't talk to my mother like that."

The bullet entered the abdomen and ranged upward. Two blood transfusions have been given Mrs. Radford. Before seeing Mrs. Radford, police said, the mother and daughter had charged Mrs. Annie Wise, living at the same address as Mrs. Radford, with receiving the dress. She also denied receiving it.

Mrs. Rogers was held as a material witness.

ACCIDENT VICTIM'S RELATIVES SOUGHT

Body of Youth, Identified as Peter Macey, Still Unclaimed at Fayetteville.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ga., March 16.—(AP) Officials here are endeavoring to locate the relatives of a youth identified as Peter Macey, between 10 and 15 years old, who was killed at Fayetteville, near here, Friday afternoon by a cotton truck on which he had "hitched" a ride.

The youth, who was without money or underwear and clad in a suit that showed strenuous wear, carried an address book with addresses from New York to Miami, Fla., but telegrams to persons listed so far failed to elicit any definite information on home or relatives.

One address was "Endless Caverns, Inc., Endless Caverns, Va., and a telegram to that company brought a reply that the youth had relatives, names not known, in Scranton, Pa., and as uncle, name not known, on the steamship Mississippi, at Miami, Fla.

Addresses of girls in Fort Myers, Fla., was the source of information that the youth had been there a few weeks ago with the Johnny Jones circus. No reply has been obtained from a girl in Maryland, whose letter addressed to "Peter Macey," was found on the youth's person.

The youth accosted Frank Millsaps, driver of a Redwine cotton truck, in Palmetto about noon Friday and asked for a ride. There being no room with the driver, he got on top of the truck and seated himself between the truck body and the trailer, apparently seeking shelter from the wind. A beam broke and he was crushed to death.

Officials said tonight that if relatives could not be located within a day or two the youth would be buried here.

The letter from the girl in Maryland was a friendly note to "Dear Pete" and signed "A. F. Margaret Zimmerman, Fulton, Mo. It was addressed to "Peter Macey, Endless Caverns, Va."

A bank book on the Citizens National bank, New Market, Va., showed a deposit of $5 last fall and withdrawal a month later.

Among the names and addresses found on the youth, some written in a book and others on cards, were: Miss Gladys Montgomery, 2902 Palm street, Fort Myers, Fla.; Miss Miller, 601 Cedar drive, Easton, Pa.; Miss Marie Wiedner, 7 West 10th street, New York city; Miss Margaret Woodruff, 807 Harrison street, Petersburg, Va.; Miss Rhoda Eaton, 1228 I street, Washington, D. C.; and E. J. Hicks, Seminole hotel, apartment 1, Jacksonville, Fla.

Town Theatre at Savannah
Plans Interesting Season

MISS EDITH RUSSELL. H. H. HARRINGTON.

SAVANNAH, Ga., March 16.—The Town theatre which is now one of the established organizations of Savannah is preparing for a very active season. It has recently engaged H. H. Harrington and Miss Edith Russell to direct its affairs during the coming year. Mr. Harrington and Miss Russell came from Asheville, N. C. Mr. Harrington will be the technical director while Miss Russell is to be director of dramatic art. Under the guidance and direction it is proposed to broaden the scope of the Town theatre considerably. It promises to be the art center of Savannah. Mrs. F. W. Abbe, formerly of Atlanta, is president of the Town theatre and the executive head of the organization. The Town theatre gives five or six amateur plays each season.

FINAL RITES HELD
FOR J. L. MULLALLY

MACON, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—Hundreds of Macon citizens assembled at the First Presbyterian church here at 10 o'clock this morning to pay last tribute to J. Lane Mullally, immediate past president of Al Shih Temple of the Shrine and for 20 years chief deputy sheriff of Bibb county.

Following brief funeral services at the church, the body of the former Sheriff was taken aboard a special train which left the Terminal station at 10:15 o'clock for Sparta, Mr. Mullally's native home, for interment at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. With the body went scores of members of the local Shrine temple, county officials with whom Mr. Mullally had been associated for years and friends and relatives.

The train returned here at 3:30 in the afternoon in time for the funeral of Thomas H. Halliburton, another prominent member of Al Shih Temple.

On the large metallic casket which held the body of the beloved officer, there was a large spread of Easter lilies. On the altar was another large offering of roses, carnations and lilies. In the center of the group of floral pieces was a large horseshoe of flowers. It came from Thomas Murphy, nationally known horseman and a personal friend of Mr. Mullally. It was through Mr. Murphy's interest that the Shrine temple was organized in Macon. Mr. Mullally was wintering his stables of more than 50 fine horses in Macon. The former chief deputy was a lover of horses, often traveling hundreds of miles to witness races.

There were wreaths from various organizations of the local Shrine temple; from Al Shih temple of Savannah; from the Shrine temple of Atlanta; from the Shrine Club, of Columbus; from the office of Sheriff James R. Hicks, Jr.; from the Bibb county commission; and from various other organizations as well as from scores of personal friends.

A quartet composed of Van Moore, Mrs. E. Doublerley, of Atlanta, Johnson and John McMillen sang the funeral music.

Mr. Mullally died Friday morning following a long illness. He had been associated with his bed for more than a year.

Five Injured
In Auto Crash

JESUP, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—A five-passenger automobile driven by Mrs. E. Doublerley, of this city, slipped into a motor truck that is said to have been parked on the highway without lights, 10 miles north of here on the road to Odum, tonight. Five persons were injured to such extent that hospital treatment was necessary and several others received slight injuries.

On the truck were C. L. Aspinwall, owner, and his wife, and Mrs. Montie Aspinwall, and two men whose names were not obtained. They reside near Odum.

The only one on that car who was badly hurt and she was brought to a hospital here.

C. E. Doublerley and his wife, his wife's sister, Ruth Priestner, 13, and the latter's father, Mr. E. Priestner, also were brought to a local hospital for treatment. Others in the automobile were not badly hurt.

C. L. Aspinwall was placed under arrest on a charge of parking an automobile on the highway and is under $300 bond.

B. Y. P. U. CONVENTION
SET FOR WEST POINT

Delegates From Central Western Region of Georgia Will Gather March 27-28.

WEST POINT, Ga., March 16.—The young people of the Baptist churches of the central western region of Georgia will hold their tenth annual convention here March 27 and 28, starting with the afternoon session at 3:30 o'clock on Thursday. Young people from every county in this section of the state will be in attendance. Speakers from Georgia and other states are included on the program.

The convention will start with a get-together session Thursday afternoon at which time the visiting delegates will be recognized and official welcome made by the young people and churches of West Point. This session will be closed by an inspirational address.

Thursday night there will be two speakers, Edwin S. Preston, of Atlanta, state B. Y. P. U. secretary, and James W. Merritt, of Gainesville, who is executive secretary-elect of the Georgia Baptist convention.

Friday morning a business session will be held at which Dr. J. D. Franks of the First Baptist church, Columbus, Miss., will bring a consecration message. This is expected to be a high point of inspiration and decision in the lives of many young people.

Conferences and an open forum will feature the Friday morning session. Miss Jewel Ellison, of East Point, the regional leader, will bring a devotional message at the beginning of that session. Special music from West Point musicians and others in the central western district will feature this and every other session of the meeting. Dr. J. D. Franks will bring the closing message of the morning.

Christian Education will be presented by Dean Peyton Jacob, of Mercer University, Macon, in the afternoon. Friday morning, the young people's work will be given by Sibley C. Burnett, of Atlanta, state B. Y. P. U. leader and rural worker, and the conferences will meet at the close.

Dr. M. A. Cooper, pastor of the West End Baptist church, of Atlanta, will speak on Friday night prior to the presentation of awards for the best units in the district and then a feature play will be presented by the young people of West Point, bringing the convention to a close.

In previous years there has been over a thousand in attendance during one or more sessions of this central western convention. A fine delegation is expected this year. The meeting was held last year in Carrollton. Walter R. Thomas, of Atlanta, is president of this region and the pastor of the First Baptist church at West Point. H. H. Shirley, will be host to the meeting.

Georgia News
Told in Brief

Home Is Burned. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 16.—T. B. Sullivan, whose home in the Ousey district of Lowndes county was destroyed by fire about the middle of February, has had plans prepared for rebuilding.

Poultry Sale Tuesday. BAINBRIDGE, Ga., March 16.—The Decatur County Livestock Association will hold a poultry sale next Tuesday at the A. C. L. railroad pens. The county agent, D. E. Sawyer, and M. L. Hayes, secretary of the chamber of commerce are co-operating with those in charge for a big and successful sale. Bids will be secured through the state bureau of markets.

Malaria Meeting Scheduled. CAMILLA, Ga., March 16.—A conference looking to devising ways and means to eradicate malaria from this region, is to be held here Wednesday. Dr. A. M. Soule, president of the Georgia Association of Agriculture, is one of several prominent men on the program.

Packing Plant Sought. VALDOSTA, Ga., March 16.—A number of truck growers of Brooks county are negotiating with the Southern Produce Company, of this city with a view of getting a packing plant established in Quitman to handle vegetable shipments.

Preaches in Bainbridge. BAINBRIDGE, Ga., March 16.—The Rev. J. H. Bartfield, pastor of the Christian church, preached Sunday to Business and Professional Women's Club on "The Royal Merchant Woman." Mrs. Nina Smith was in charge of the special program of music.

Named School Head. HARTWELL, Ga., March 16.—At a recent meeting of the board of education, H. G. Maughon was re-elected to head the Hartwell public schools for another year. During the two years that Professor Maughon has been in charge, the grammar school has been placed on the accredited list with the highest rating; the high school is on the southern accredited list and the extra-curricular activities of the school have been very active. It is thought that there will be very little change in the present faculty throughout the system for another year.

Will Take Legion Post. SAVANNAH, Ga., March 16.—(AP) Garrard Haines, newly elected commander of Chatham Post, No. 36, American Legion, will be installed in office Tuesday evening to complete the unexpected term of Leslie M. Daugherty, resigned.

Amazing Formula for Colds, Grippe and Bilious Fever Gives Overnight Results

Don't let a cold get a grip on you and then feel that it must "run its course." Instead, when the first symptoms warn you that a cold has attacked you, take Laxana and check it at the start.

Laxana gives overnight results because it is Double Strength. It is an amazingly effective prescription for colds, grippe, sick headache, biliousness, and malarial chills and fever.

Ask your local druggist for the large 35c bottle of Laxana which he is authorized to sell on a guarantee of satisfaction or money refunded.

And look for the words "Double Strength" which appear in red on every bottle.

MACON PAYS TRIBUTE TO T. H. HALLIBURTON

Funeral Services Conducted From Vineville Baptist Church.

MACON, Ga., March 16.—(AP)—His associates and friends whom he served for many years in public office today heaped final honors upon Thomas H. Halliburton, voted Macon's most prominent citizen. Mr. Halliburton was killed Friday in an automobile accident.

The funeral was held from the Vineville Baptist church with Dr. J. E. Sammons, pastor, officiating. Burial was at the Riverside cemetery.

An hour before the funeral the church was filled. There were 250 floral wreaths, while overhead was a floral cross of pink and white. The altar was blanketed with flowers. The music was by the church choir.

Dr. Sammons, in the service, quoted from a sermon delivered here 20 years ago by Dr. J. B. Hawthorne, former pastor of the Baptist church, to which Mr. Halliburton often had referred. The text was from Corinthians, "The things which are seen are temporal, but the things which are unseen are eternal."

"The place chosen for the burial is on a hillside overlooking the city, and in plain view of Mr. Halliburton's own home. At the grave a simple prayer was said, and taps were blown by a Boy Scout bugler. Mr. Halliburton was a Boy Scout commissioner, in addition to having served the city as an alderman and mayor previous to his death."

SUBDIVISIONS!
HERE'S THE RECORDS:
"Let's Keep It Straight"

Mr. Etheridge and his colleagues are spreading a big smoke screen by crying from the housetops that the facts concerning subdivision development is "political propaganda." Here are the actual records, taken from the commissioners' official minutes and on record at the Courthouse. These are facts and cannot be denied or "covered up" by any political smoke screen campaigning.

Read These Records

SUBDIVISION NUMBER ONE—Land Lot 101, Northeast corner of Sylvan Road and Cleveland Avenue, containing fifty-one acres, recorded in Book 1202, Page 212, deed dated 10-22-28, from George F. Longino, Jr., to Walter B. Stewart (Commissioner), conveying an undivided one-third interest in the above property for the consideration of $10.00, the assumption of certain obligations and OTHER VALUABLE CONSIDERATIONS. The above subdivision is uninhabited but look at the Commissioners' records of February 6, 1929. Here it is, as recorded in Book R, Page 450, Minutes of County Commissioners' official meetings: "Upon motion of Commissioner Gilbert, it was ordered that the county hereby accepts this deed (for roads) and that the roads in question be graded when same can be reached conveniently by the county." Present at this meeting were County Commissioners ETHERIDGE, STEWART, HENDRIX, GILBERT and HOPE (deceased). The roads "in question" as mentioned in these minutes were Springdale Road, Glenway Drive and Elizabeth Street.

SUBDIVISION NUMBER TWO—Located in Land Lots 66 and 95, containing .157-acre. Recorded on Page 529, Book 1120, deed to an undivided one-third interest in the above property to Walter B. Stewart (County Commissioner), from J. H. Longino, dated 10-22-28 (same date as No. 1), $10.00 and other valuable considerations. This work was passed up by the County Commissioners at their regular meeting January 4, 1928, and here is the record: "Upon motion of Commissioner ETHERIDGE, it was ordered that the same be and is adopted and made the order of the board." Minutes recorded in Book R, Page 11, County Commissioners' Minutes.

SUBDIVISION NUMBER THREE—Located in Land Lot 51 and full description may be had by referring to Deed Book 1121, Page 374, which shows that on October 16th, 1928, PAUL S. ETHERIDGE (County Commissioner) received a deed to this tract of land from Ronald Ransom and W. D. Thomson, Receivers of Morningstar, Incorporated, in consideration of $25,000 cash in hand. On the same date, recorded in the same book, Page 376, is a deed from the said Paul S. Etheridge for two-thirds undivided interest in the same property, for the consideration of $10.00 and other valuable considerations, sold to T. D. Messdor and J. T. DeJarnette, one-third each. County Commissioners' Minutes of December 4, 1929, shows that upon a motion of Commissioner Stewart, seconded by Commissioner Hendrix, it was ordered that the county pave Rock Springs Road. (This property is located on Rock Springs Road. Present at this meeting were ETHERIDGE, STEWART, GILBERT and HENDRIX. At the Commissioners' meeting January 2, 1930, on motion of Commissioner Gilbert, verbal petition, that the county pave Rock Springs Road, was referred to Public Works for report.

Quoting from the minutes of the session of December 4, 1929, Clerk Wood, of the Board, certifies in part:

"I further certify that it is my impression that there was no written petition made for this work, but petition was made verbally to the Board." This refers to Rock Springs Road, and Clerk Wood states further that: "I certify I have examined the Records of Fulton County, and I fail to find any petition for work on Berkshire Road. March 1, 1930." Berkshire Road is in the same subdivision, and has been graded by the county.

None of the above projects were petitioned, filed and advertised as is required by law, in so far as records disclose.

To continue to reproduce records would be only a repetition of the above facts. The details are in keeping with those above. There are many such transactions and this statement may be verified by reference to the records of County Commissioners' meetings on file at the Courthouse.

The people of Fulton County are aroused. They are going to put a stop to the high-handed methods employed by public officials.

Here is what GRIFFITH, SPRATT and WHITLEY say about subdivisions in their platform: "THE PAVING OF UNNECESSARY EXPENSIVE ROADS THROUGH PRIVATE PROPERTIES MUST STOP." In the election of the Griffith, Spratt and Whitley ticket it will stop.

BURGESS CHILDREN'S STORIES

FLIP CALLS HIS MASTER.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

When meeting strangers have a care:
Of your approach I pray beware.
—Flip the Terrier.

Flip the Terrier had gone down on the Green Meadows. The ground was still frozen, but there was the feel of spring in the air and it made Flip uneasy. He wanted to go roaming around, so he had gone down on the Green Meadows just to see what was to be seen. He was trotting along halfway to the Smiling Pool, when ahead of him and a little off to one side he saw something move. Instantly he turned in that direction.

Almost at once a queer looking object began to flop along ahead of him, as if trying to get away from him. Of course, Flip became very much interested at once. He knew it was a bird, for it kept spreading its wings as it flopped along. It would stand almost straight and waddle in the funniest way and then pitch forward. Flip began to bark and prance around it. The bird stopped flopping around and squatted down. Flip danced around it, more excited than ever, all the time barking. Then he darted in to seize it. Instead of seizing it, he jumped back with a sharp yelp. That bird had struck him with a long, sharp, pointed bill. Flip thought he could move quickly, but that bird was quicker than he. Right then and there was born a new and very great respect for this curious feathered person.

Flip looked back up at Farmer Brown's house. He saw Farmer Brown's Boy walking toward the barn. Flip began to bark, as he does when he has cornered someone. Farmer Brown's Boy stopped to look over toward Flip. He could see the little dog dancing about as he barked. "I wonder what he's found now," said Farmer Brown's Boy. "I wonder if Johnny Chuck has come out and

When colds are at their worst —VAPEX is at its best

INSTANT RELIEF WITH THIS REMARKABLE WAR-TIME DISCOVERY

VAPEX was discovered during a terrible war-time epidemic of influenza. With the toll from the disease mounting day by day, chemists in a famous laboratory were untouched by the disease. The ingredients with which they worked gave off a healing vapor. . . . These same ingredients are in VapeX today. Their vapor kills the germs of common colds. . . . Everywhere VapeX is used for swift, sure relief from colds. Nothing could be simpler or more effective. Just a drop on your handkerchief—just a drop at each end of your pillow at night—and you breathe your cold away. . . . Relief is instant. The first breath clears the head, opens up the nose, checks infection. Keep a bottle of VapeX always handy to stop your cold at the start. A dollar now saves dollars and distress later. All druggists sell V-A-P-E-X in the trim white box with the green triangle. Never accept a cheaper imitation and expect the same results. . . . Priced at $1 a bottle of fifty applications. E. Fougere & Company, Inc., New York City.

Flip has found him. I can see something down there, but I can't make out what it is. I guess I'll have to go down and find out."

So Farmer Brown's Boy started down across the Green Meadows. Flip

Of course, Flip became much interested at once.

redoubled his barking when he saw his master coming. He kept making little rushes at something. But Farmer Brown's Boy noticed that these rushes always stopped short of whatever or whoever it was he was rushing at. Flip grew a little bolder as his master approached. With his master there he felt braver. Once more he made a real attempt to seize that bird. Once more he jumped back with a sharp yelp.

Farmer Brown's Boy chuckled. "Flip is getting more than he bargained for," said he. "As I live, I believe that is Dipper the Grebe."

What under the sun is he doing down here on the Green Meadows. Here, Flip, here! Leave that bird alone! Reluctantly, Flip obeyed. He stopped his rushing and barking. Farmer Brown's Boy stooped over and picked up that bird. It was Dipper the Grebe. Dipper, you know, is one of the water folk. He is in a way a sort of small cousin of Dipper the Loon.

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(P)—The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment announced today that Styles by Annette.

A feminized sports dress that greets us with dashing vivid blue tones in diagonal weave tweed, a new Paris-Riviera favorite.

The French couturier cleverly separated the circular flaring tiers to carry out the sports theme.

An applied band that starts at neckline creates vertical line to lengthen the silhouette.

Inverted pin tucks at front shoulders also have a narrowing effect, and at same time are decorative.

Turn-over collar, turn-back flaring cuffs and jabot echo important lingerie note in sun-tan beige silk pique.

Style No. 197 is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

We suggest that when you send for pattern, you enclose 10 cents additional for copy of large Fashion magazine.

BEAUTY FASHIONS

A POPULAR SUIT STYLE FOR THE LITTLE MAN.

6789. This model has a new and convenient feature in the adjustable front of the trousers. It also has comfortable short sleeves—on the simple waist an unusual generous inserted side pockets. The trousers are cut wide in the leg portions quite in the "shorts" style of "grown ups."

Linen, pongee or Peter Pan cloth are excellent materials for suits of this kind.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 2, 4, and 6 years. To make the suit for a 4-year size will require 1 1/2 yard of material 35 inches wide.

For the waist alone 7-8 yard will be required, and for the trousers alone 7-8 yard will be required 35 inches wide or 1-2 yard 54 inches wide. The pockets will require 1-4 yard of 35-inch muslin cut lengthwise. To finish the waist with bias binding will require 1 7/8 yard 1 1/2 inch wide.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 10c in silver or stamps.

Send 12 cents in silver or stamps for our up-to-date spring and summer 1936 Book of Fashions.

War Vets To Express Sympathy To Mrs. Taft

A letter of condolence to the widow of the late William Howard Taft is to be drafted by Colonel Fred W. Benteen, commander of the Pasig Lair No. 1, Military Order of Serpents, it was voted at the semi-monthly meeting of the organization at the auditorium Sunday afternoon. All members of the order are Spanish-American War veterans and many knew Taft when he was a commissioner of the Philippines.

Colonel Benteen was a personal friend of Mr. and Mrs. Taft in the Philippines and is said to have been the first man ever to mention the possibilities of the presidency to the Taft family. At the meeting Sunday he delivered a talk and gave many incidents and anecdotes concerning his personal contacts with the former president. Other talks at the Sunday meeting were made by James E. Bowden, former alderman, and John H. Cash, of the Hapeville Orphans' home. Music and entertainment was furnished by Clint Barber, J. P. Carlson, Annie Clyde Edgar and William Johnson.

Man Is Given Life For Murder of Wife

MARYVILLE, Mo., March 16.—(P)—Charles D. Dimmick, St. Joseph draftsman, was convicted of a first degree murder for the slaying of his wife by a circuit court jury here last night. He was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Dimmick pleaded insanity. The state charged he beat his wife to death with a rock last fall.

Countess Dies Three Days After Mate

WORCESTER, England, March 16.—(P)—The Countess of Coventry, widow of the ninth Earl of Coventry, died today. She survived her husband only three days.

The Earl of Coventry died at his home, Broome court, March 13, at the age of 91. The countess was a daughter of the second Earl of Craven. They were married in 1865.

The Emperor of America

by Sax Rohmer

FIFTH INSTALLMENT.

Synopsis of Preceding Installments. Commander Drake Roscoe, of the United States navy, incurs the hostility of a mysterious criminal band when he tries to aid a young woman, a millionaire's daughter, who is marked for death. He takes her to the steamer Ruritania, where his friend, Dr. Stopford, is chief surgeon. Shortly before sailing Stopford finds Roscoe missing. He determines to go ashore to find him. Neither Roscoe nor Stopford suspect that Madame Cerna, whom they have met several times, is an agent of the criminal band.

"Instruct Sector Captain 3-A-1," a musical voice replied, "to absent himself at once, against the possibility of Pedro Cortes revealing his name. He is to leave New York by the night train for Chicago. Advise Chicago."

"Sector Captain 2-A-2," the other voice went on monotonously, "reports that he traced Roscoe and Stopford to the Champion home. His arrest was attempted, but attempt failed. Report ends."

"Instruct the chief chemist," came a prompt order, "to detail two men acquainted with the position of the switch behind the Champion garage to act immediately. Cover them. Concentrate firing groups from all inner zones upon every approach to the house. Instruct D division to keep three lines open. In the event of pursuit all units will disperse and reassemble in Sector 3-D-1 at 11:30. Move."

The red light went out. . . . "Poor Meyer's story of the zone map was not an invention after all," said Roscoe. "I doubted his tale when you told me, but I believe it now. Mr. Champion, we are up against a powerful organization—utterly unscrupulous—extremely efficient."

Peter Champion looked haggard. "My poor boy!" he muttered. "God knows where he is tonight." "Of two things you may be sure," Roscoe replied. "First, that he is alive—hence your present extreme danger. Second, that you will have word of him within a matter of hours."

"I don't follow," Stopford declared. "Why?" "Because," Roscoe explained, "all morning papers will carry the sensational news that Peter Champion filed a new will today. Every cent of which he may die possessed goes to a fund to establish a public deer park in a spot accessible from central New York."

"Briny," Stopford admitted. "Good, quick work, sir. By disinheritin' your son you upset the whole applecart of this mysterious gang?" "That's the idea," said Roscoe. "It makes Mr. Champion safe and it gives us time to trace his missing son. I predict that he shall hear of him within 24 hours."

"And I take it," Stopford went on, "without jumpin' to conclusions, that we sit tight here till mornin' watched over by flocks of police?" "Wrong," Roscoe began, when he was interrupted.

A shot sounded dimly from somewhere inside the house. The library door was thrown open, and a detective burst in. The three in the room sprang up, facing him. He stood in the doorway, pistol in hand.

"Stand by!" he said. "One of the outside men saw someone slip around behind the garage."

There was the sound of a second shot—a cry. "Morris has got him from inside," he added, "or he's got Morris! Are you all armed?"

"Yes," said Peter Champion, and threw a brace and pistol on the table. "I have mine," said Roscoe, tapping his pockets.

Stopford surveyed the weapons critically and then selected one. A tremendous outcry arose on the stairs. It was drowned in a wave of discordant sound from the street beyond; a shrill wailing, the clanging of a bell, a creaking of powerful cylinders.

"The raiding party!" said Roscoe—"and the car from the fire department."

Then onto the landing came a group of three, two detectives pushing a prisoner before them. He was a black-haired, sallow-faced fellow, somberly dressed.

"Here he is, sir," one of the detectives reported to Roscoe. "He got in by jumping from the next-door fire ladders onto those at the back. We caught him behind the garage. He pulled a gun."

"Take me away!" screamed the man. "I do nothing. Take me out of this house! Anywhere—anywhere! But take me out of this house!"

"He's crazy to be jailed," said his other captor. "Been begging us to take him to the station ever since we caught him."

And now the crazed man raised imploring hands.

"I tell you! I tell you!" he moaned. "Listen. It is true. To stay in this house another minute it is death! Now, I have said it! Mother of Mercy, save me!"

Roscoe's face grew tense and grim. "Clear the house!" he directed. "I want every soul out in two minutes. Hang onto your prisoner, Stendal!"

Addressing the second detective, "Move—up to bottom, everybody, dressed or undressed! Come on, Mr. Champion! Brisk, Stopford!"

As a result, curious observers witnessed a spectacle unique in that sedate, old-fashioned residential street. Men servants in pajamas, maids wrapped in bedspreads huddled outside Peter Champion's house. Police gathered them up. The place was alive with armed men. A car belonging to the fire department throbbed before the door and the valve.

"If steam had been admitted, it would have filled the building."

Mystified, they searched further. Peter Champion's house was a maze. Its worn flooring and wainscots had harbored many a mouse, several rats, and not less than a thousand roaches.

These, to a rat, to a roach, had quit their hiding places. They lay dead on carpets, on polished floors, on bookcases. The police captain leading the party turned to one of his men.

"Have you got it?" he said. "That was some kind of poison gas they loosed off below. There's nothing left alive in the place."

At about which time Peter Champion, Roscoe, and Stopford were taking early coffee with the captain of the Ruritania. The newspapers had just come aboard; and every paper featured the quixotic will of Peter Champion.

A quartermaster's knock interrupted the conversation. Roscoe was wanted on the telephone. He went down to the deck. He had saved Peter Champion. With moderate optimism he might hope that Champion's son was out of danger. He took up the instrument, and:

"Yes," he said. "You called me?" "Congratulations," came a musical voice. "Commander Roscoe—you begin to interest me."

"You know when we sail, Stopford?" said the Commander. "You bet I do, sir! Sharp on the tick of one, sir."

The captain of the Ruritania stared at his senior surgeon. Dr. Stopford returned this scrutiny unmoved.

Continued Tomorrow.

KAYE DON TACKLES CRACKER FOR FORMAL SPEED RUN

Robert T. Jones, Jr., executive vice president of the Atlanta baseball team, and prominent Atlanta attorney, is 28 years old today.

Mr. Jones is particularly unfortunate. He happens to be in the public eye due to his connection with the baseball club. Furthermore, his birthday happens to be St. Patrick's Day.

And, finally, the year of his birth—1902—often has been recorded in the past and now is a matter of fairly widespread knowledge.

Therefore Mr. Jones has no chance in the world to escape having his age brought up at least once a year.

There never is any argument about Mr. Jones' age now. Once upon a time when he was known as a boy golfer, eastern golf writers professed to doubt he was under 21. They could not imagine a lad in his teens playing golf with grown men.

That led to the home folks broadcasting, proudly, the correct data from the family Bible and setting the world right on his age.

And now, today, the distinguished Atlanta is 28 years old. He is 28 years old and can laugh merrily over the figures. Imagine being 28 years old!!!

HEADS UP!

It takes no champion soothsayer to predict that this birthday business is going to get mighty tiresome to Mr. Jones before long.

Besides there is no earthly use in parading the bad news before the public when the "thirties" have clicked up on the old indicator. For one thing it gives the youngsters too much confidence. They never seem to take an "old" man of 30 seriously.

I, for one, will enter into a solemn pact with the news agencies of the section and of the world if necessary to omit any actual statistics from the report from now on. I will head a movement to abolish the date from the secular calendar entirely.

It happens that I was born on that same date a few years—I said a few—before Mr. Jones. And for many years I have entirely omitted bookkeeping from the report.

THE BIG YEAR.

Bobby Jones also has won some fame as a golfer. He has won nine major golf titles in England and in America. He began playing in the national tournaments when he was 14 years old, which led to all the discussion about his age in the first place.

This year, his fifteenth in the field, he plans what some say is his final big campaign. He will participate in the British open and the British amateur in England and in the United States open and amateur. He has a chance to add four more titles to his amazing record—and golf experts believe he will add at least two.

Not only Atlanta but the whole world of golf wishes him well on his birthday and would like nothing better in sport than to see him win every tournament he enters.

THE SHOW IS JUST STARTING.

But as one who has passed some distance beyond the 28 mark, I can assure Mr. Jones that no matter how many fine things have happened to him thus far, he need not imagine he has had all the good things in life.

You'd be surprised how many things of a surprising, delightful and profitable nature can occur when well along into the much discussed thirties.

Prophet Johnny Dobbs Picked Leading Hitter

"Shoelless Joe" Jackson Won Hat for Cracker Manager in 1910 Play.

By Ralph McGill.

Constitution Staff Correspondent.

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 16.—Johnny Dobbs once picked the leading hitter for the Southern league and he picked him before the first game was played.

Not only did the Cracker manager pick him but he won a ten dollar hat which was quite a bit in 1910. It would buy the best Stetson made.

The hitter was "Shoelless Joe" Jackson.

Jackson, hailing from Greenville, came into the Southern league with New Orleans. Dobbs had seen him in the year before in the Sally league.

In 1909, when the Sally league pennant was won by Atlanta in the play-off for the Southern championship, Dobbs took the Lookouts into the Southern association.

"We were standing around the hotel before opening in New Orleans that year," said Dobbs, "and I said that I could pick the hitter who would lead the league that year. They all laughed because there were some good hitters in the league who had batted about .350 the year before.

"Bill Hart, a pitcher I had, said that he would bet me a ten-dollar hat I couldn't. I took it and he called in witnesses.

"Who will be it?" asked Hart. "Joe Jackson," said Dobbs. "That buster. Why wait until tomorrow and see what I do to him."

"Well, the next afternoon Hart pitched and Joe Jackson was up four times. Hart wasn't a bad pitcher. He had a good curve ball, a fast one and a great change of pace. But that afternoon Joe Jackson hit for a home run, a triple, a double and a single in his four tries.

"That night Hart told me that he threw everything up to the plate but Jackson hit him for a home run, a triple, a double and a single in his four tries.

"Dobbs' story brought others. There isn't a man in baseball who doesn't feel sorry for 'Shoelless Joe.' He was unable to read or write when he was at his best. It was this, coupled with a naive and guileless disposition, which led him into trouble which caused his banishment from baseball. It was about Joe's banishment that

AMATEURS MEET IN TITLE FIGHTS AT CLUB TONIGHT

Eight Benning Boxers Reach S. E. A. A. U. Tourney Finals.

By Roy White.

Sixteen ambitious young boxers will fight for championships in eight divisions tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Atlanta Athletic Club gymnasium in the finals of the annual Southeastern Amateur Athletic Union boxing tournament.

Two of the best fighters in each of the eight divisions have successfully eliminated all opposition in the preliminary rounds and are ready for the championship battles tonight. Another bout has been added to the nine-bout program which promises to be one of the best amateur cards ever staged in a local ring.

Max Morris was entered in the preliminary rounds in the light heavyweight class but was out of the city Friday afternoon and unable to appear in his scheduled bout. He asked for permission to fight on the Monday night program and was matched with Johnny Baker, of Fort McPherson.

There will be no stalling in any of the fights tonight. Each bout except the added attraction will be for a division championship and challenges for championship crowns give all the fights, especially in amateur ranks. Any one of the fights will well worth the price of admission and nine thrown in on one program is a real bargain for local prizefight fans.

BENNING DOMINATES. Fort Benning, with eight entries, furnished the most contestants for championship honors. Benning is represented in the bantamweight, light heavyweight, heavyweight, and middleweight classes, while the lightweight and welterweight divisions will be all-Benning contests.

Georgia Military academy, of College Park, will have two entries in each bout. The Cadets against Glastly, of Benning, in the middleweight class, and French will fight Frankie Bogue, of Mobile, for the featherweight title. Littleton's gymnasium, of Mobile, has two representatives in the finals. Ed Scheurmann will fight Hambleton, of Memphis, for the flyweight championship with Bogue as the second man.

Endicott is Atlanta's only unattached fighter in the welterweight elimination tests and will win his way to the championship class. He will fight Bill Lewis, of Fort Benning, for the light-heavyweight championship.

PLENTY OF ACTION. There was plenty of action in the semi-final rounds Saturday night. Three of the last four bouts ended in knockouts. One was in the first round, another in the second and another in the third round.

There will be three three-minute rounds, one-minute intermissions in each bout. In case the two judges and referee differ in opinions as to the outcome, an extra three-minute round will be allowed to reach a decision. In case of a tie, the judges will decide on tonight's card.

Steve Hartney is chairman of the tournament boxing committee, with J. J. Doonan and Joe Bean as assistants. Jake Abel, former Atlanta prizefighter, and Mike Chambers, Georgia Tech trainer and boxing coach, will be the referees. Hal Voorhis and Frank Kopf will keep time and Harry Vaughn, Steve Hartney, Phil Degnon and Robert H. Martin will be the judges.

The fights will start promptly at 8:30 o'clock and there will be no intermissions. As fast as one fight is ended, another pair of fighters will be ushered into the ring.

TONIGHT'S PROGRAM. B. Hambleton (Memphis) vs. Scheurmann (Mobile) (flyweight).

Doyl (Benning) vs. Schenck (Birmingham) (bantamweight).

Bogue (Mobile) vs. French (G. M. A.) (featherweight).

Scheurmann (Benning) vs. Fullbright (Benning) (lightweight).

Lucas (Benning) vs. Joyce (Benning) (welterweight).

Carpenter (G. M. A.) vs. Gastler (Benning) (middleweight).

Endicott (Atlanta) vs. Lewis (Benning) (light-heavyweight).

Kelly (Louis Grove) vs. Gares (Benning) (heavyweight).

SPECIAL BOUT. Max Morris vs. Johnnie Baker.

THE CARD. Ted Goodrich, ex-Joe Dundee (Baltimore), vs. Joe Benning (Baltimore), six rounds.

Dick Gere (Jacksonville) vs. Joe Benning (Baltimore), six rounds.

Morris Wadaw (Atlanta) vs. Fletcher Morris (Atlanta), six rounds.

Ernest Madrox (Atlanta) vs. Spud Myers (Atlanta), six rounds.

Paul Martin (Atlanta) vs. Jimmy Trowbridge (Atlanta), four rounds.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 16.—(AP)—Out of the somewhat muddled South Atlantic baseball league situation today emerged an assuring statement by President W. G. Bramham of Durham, N. C., that the league was not handicapped by any "lack of towns wanting berths."

Judge Bramham indicated he planned to announce the league personnel Wednesday. He expressed confidence that the loop would begin its 1930 swing with a full eight-team lineup.

Another round is scheduled to be started today with a two-week limit for the playing of the match. Capital City meets East Lake, West End plays Druid Hills at Druid Hills, Black Rock plays Ansley at Ansley, Ingleside plays Stockade at Stockade and Forrest Hills plays Piedmont at Piedmont.

Each of the club professionals are slated to select another league partner for the second round matches.

Epimard's Son Wins.

AGUA CALIENTE, Mexico, March 16.—(AP)—Siskin, first son of the famous French racer Epimard, scored a decisive victory today in the inaugural of the Agua Caliente Futurity, a carry-over of the old Tia Juana Futurity.

GOOD GOLF

One way to make good golf swings is to think good golf swings. There is a good deal more to this idea than the golfing novice might realize.

One of the first steps a good golfer takes with a pupil is to make a few swings for him, so he can see the action and get it in his mind. Now and then during the lesson he will interrupt the pupil, take the club himself and demonstrate the swing as a whole or some phase of it. This may appear to be for the purpose of giving the pupil a rest; it serves also to divert the course of the instruction from straight golf mechanics to golfing imagination. Self instruction should be along similar lines. Don't let all your golf thinking be concerned with the muscle part of the game because, after all, that's the least important part. Think good swings and you will find it much easier to make good swings.

(To make good golf swings, see the book "Good Golf" by Chester Horton, Sports Editor, The Constitution, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and it will be sent to you by Mr. Horton.)

THE STATE TEAM WILL PLAY THE CRACKERS ON MONDAY AND TUESDAY AFTERNOONS.

By Ralph McGill.

Constitution Staff Correspondent.

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 16.—Playing before a large Sunday crowd, the Cracker Regulars defeated the Yanigans this afternoon, 5 to 2, in what was a very fine ball game.

It was John (Red) Oldham turn in four innings of very brilliant pitching for the regulars. In that space of time only thirteen men faced him and only one of them got a hit.

Not only did he jab them to death with his left arm but he sent a home run spinning 331 feet over the right field fence to start the third inning of hitting.

DOBBES "DELIGHTED." Johnny Dobbs, Cracker skipper, was delighted. "Oldham will be ready to start in another week," he said. "He is about ready now."

The home run was the fourth to be hit in a game here. Brown, Langford and Knox already have home runs to their credit.

Don Brennan, wearing a rubber shirt, worked four steady innings for the Yanigans. He was perspiring vigorously as the sun was bearing down hard after two days of clouds.

Brennan is a bit overweight but the rubber shirt is helping the pounds off.

The regulars got to him for a brace of tallies in the four innings he worked. Five hits were totaled off his delivery, one of them being that home run smack by Oldham.

The game saw Lefty Wierman, the former Lookout and House of David pitcher, work five innings. He followed Brennan for the Yanigans and pitched good ball. He had some poor support and was wild in one inning, all of which aided the Regulars to get three runs off him.

REDUCING SQUAD. Lefty Wierman, who reported with a bay window, has got rid of it completely. He is very flat in front and his arm is better. Brennan was a heavy hitter, almost continuously and worked very diligently at getting off the surplus poundage.

Let Lefty Wierman sit and look wistfully at a dish of potatoes to see one of the saddest faces in the world.

Jim Seagrave, the South Carolinian, followed Oldham to the mound and with the exception of one inning, had the situation well in hand. The last three of his five innings were hitless.

A fast double play, started by Jim Battle, closed out the Yanigans in the ninth. Battle played a great game at the corner.

Myrtle was out of the game, letting his injured leg heal. He coached at third for the Regulars.

IT WAS CLOSE. Frank Wierman, the greyed man of destiny, was not present when the game started. No one had seen him and a searching party was about to start out when he showed up. He had come to dinner to a home some distance from Douglas and the car bringing him back slipped off the road into a ditch. Knox played in the outfield place.

Ivy Wingo, who has been catching for quite a span of time, looked very fine behind the plate. He is an artist in the reception of the ball.

Jack Sheehan was the busy hitter of the day with three singles to his credit. Big Ed Brown got the only extra base hit, a double.

It was a fast, interesting game, the first nine inning contest, the Cracker Regulars had. No admission was charged.

Heavy Entry List For College Ring Bouts. PHILADELPHIA, March 16.—(AP)—Dr. Francis C. Grant, secretary of the Eastern Interscholastic Boxing Association, said today that the largest entry list in the history of the association was expected for the annual championship tournament here next Friday and Saturday.

Preliminaries will be held Friday night, the semi-finals Saturday afternoon and the finals Saturday night.

Dr. Grant said entries had been received from the University of Pennsylvania, Penn State, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Navy, Western Maryland, Syracuse and Georgetown.

New York University also is expected to compete and an invitation has been issued to North Carolina.

Mobile Infielder Injured in Crash. SEIMLA, Ala., March 16.—(AP)—Joe Longnecker, shortstop, property of the Mobile Club of the Southern Association, was seriously injured today when an automobile occupied by him was forced from the highway 25 miles north of here by a car said to have been driven by an unidentified negro. ## Smart Entry List Seen For Kennel Club Show

April 11 and 12 Named as Dates for Annual Event—Otto Gross To Judge.

Officials of the Atlanta Kennel Club declared Sunday that they expected this year's show to surpass any ever staged by the association. April 11 and 12 are the dates for the annual event.

Following the announcement several days ago of the dates for the all-breed Atlanta show came entries of leading dogs from the states of Michigan, North Carolina, Indiana and Florida. Inquiries also have been received from many owners concerning the Atlanta show.

Champions along with other famous dogs will compete for honors here in April. As an added attraction, will be Champion Robinson's Duke, pointer, owned by J. L. Henderson, of Tampa, Fla. This dog will not compete for honors but will be on exhibition.

Many fine Atlanta dogs will be entered in the show. Among these dogs will be Sigourney Susque, champion Boston terrier, owned by the Idlewood Kennels. This dog recently won the title of champion of the world in the wire haired terrier class.

Long Beach Jock of the Main, champion bulldog, owned by H. C. Stewart, of Augusta, Maine, has been entered. F. W. Trux, of Jacksonville, Fla., will enter dogs in the show.

Preparations are being made to handle a record entry list this year. Otto Gross, internationally known judge of dogs, will be brought here for the occasion. He will be assisted by several capable officials. The present indications are that this year's show will outdo any ever staged here and officials of the club are enthusiastic over the prospects of making it a great success.

Mrs. R. C. Hackman, of 480 Sterling street, is handling all entries and registration of the dogs. She can be reached at DEarborn 1115.

BLIGHT FEARED IN BOXING GAME

NEW YORK, March 15.—(AP)—The click of the turnstiles grows steadily fainter and the keepers of cauliflowerdom are frankly worried about another blight is visiting their favorite vegetable.

The chant of foul has been raised so persistently of late in both local and foreign rings that there seems to be a growing inclination among the faithful to rest at home by the radio and get the bad news there. The result has been a falling off in gate receipts that is genuinely alarming.

N. C. A. A. Formulates Baseball Ethics Code

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—A baseball code in which courtesy and sportsmanship will be the keywords has been formulated by the National Collegiate A. A. for use at college and school games by players and spectators alike.

The new code is outlined in the current issue of the magazine, "Sportsmanship," by Dr. Edgar Fauver, director of physical education at Wesleyan university.

"The code is intended to emphasize," Dr. Fauver said, "that baseball is a game to be played on the field without interference from spectators. The sportsmanship code emphasizes first the value of building up a tradition of courtesy to visiting teams on the part not only of those of the home players, but of those in attendance at the games, which will discourage any effort on the part of players or spectators to rattle the pitcher or any other member of the visiting team."

The code urges the players not to protest decisions of the umpires by discourteous actions or words. Coaches of teams are particularly asked to abide by the decisions of the umpires and not to attempt to stimulate their players to make objections to these decisions.

Southeastern Leaguers Launch Fifth Season Under Sunny Skies

Youngsters Face Keen Flag Chase

Montgomery Lions Hard Hit By Draft—All Loop Teams Look Strong.

MONTGOMERY, Ala., March 16.—(AP)—After four turbulent years, the Southeastern league will launch its fifth campaign with the brightest prospects the circuit ever has faced. Curtailment of the salary limit, the introduction of a new rookie rule and the increase to $5,000 for the league forfeit fund guarantee a more solid working basis for the young league.

While the field will be cluttered with collegiate and sandlot hopefuls, fans throughout the loop express the view that the youngsters will face keen competition as many of the veterans are gradually coming into the fold, despite the 30 per cent salary reduction.

Failure to launch a franchise at St. Petersburg automatically forced an offer by Charles Griner, former owner of the Jacksonville franchise, to place a team at Havana, but many league moguls, including President Cliff Green, are confident that either Miami or St. Petersburg will back a team next season. In this event the Southeastern loop will be the second international league.

NO SCHEDULE.
While league activities were held up pending the final decision of the parties behind the plan to enlarge the circuit, work has been speeded up of late to permit the opening scheduled for April 15. Ratification of the 1930 playing schedule is being held in abeyance in view of the possibility of the admission of two cities whose fate in the Sally League is hanging in the balance.

Montgomery, winner of the pennant for the past two seasons, will get to the post a dark horse for the coming sprint. The Lions, under Bill Pierce in 1928, and manned by Roy Ellum last season, were hard hit by the drafting of Jack Kloza by Wichita Falls, the recalling of Woody Abernathy by Birmingham and the sale of Roy "Goot" Walker, pitcher, to Nashville.

Other stars lost by the champions are Mack Pickett, first baseman; Walter Shannon, second sacker, and Goldie Holt, who was sold to Omaha. George Kirsch, former AA hurler, who is owned by Nashville, was recalled by the Vols. He won an important victory for Montgomery in the eight-game play-off for the championship with Tampa last September.

TAMPA LOOMS.
While the Lions will present an uncertain quantity for the 1930 race the odds appear to be switching toward Frank (Pop) Kitchens and his Tampa Smokers, runners-up last year. Kitchens' stalwarts got off to an early training start and in their first effort lost a 6-to-5 decision to the Philadelphia Athletics. The feature of the game was the excellent hurling of Alvarez, star right-hander.

Griffin Expected At Douglas Today

DOUGLAS, Ga., March 16.—Ivy Griffin, first baseman, was reported to be on the way to the training camp here in a message received tonight. Dobbs said he expected the holdout player Monday morning.

who shared the burden with Wally Bush and Roy Appleton.

Zinn Beck will have a farm full of clover to pick from. The second day of spring work last week found 40 athletes drawing pay from the Cloverleaf cash register. With his star battery in harness—Catcher Rowland and Pitcher Steve Ellis, the Selma skipper's worries are lessened to an appreciable extent. Selma will have a hustling and fast club.

Down at Jacksonville, Rube Marquard faces a situation almost identical with Montgomery. The former Giant star, who took the helm of the Tars last season, is busy building a new team.

Columbus and Pensacola, underdogs last season, will be materially aided by the salary cut and the advent of more ambitious players. The Foxes and Fliers figure to be on even terms with any team in the league in the early calculations. The management behind both clubs labored diligently to obtain sound financial backing.

President Green has signed up a complete new staff of umpires. Three arbiters were promoted to Class A ball after last season, while three others were released outright. Five of the newcomers are Peter Rife, of Clinton, Ind.; E. W. Waljer, Huntington, W. Va.; F. M. Floyd, Macon, Ga.; Tom McQuillan, Bisbee, Ariz., and Ed Mahley, Coffeyville, Kan.

Shikat in Miami.

MIAMI, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Richard Shikat, recognized in New York and Pennsylvania as world's champion of heavyweight wrestlers, arrived here today to conclude training for his Tuesday night grappling match with Jim McMillan, former University of Illinois football star.

Tech and Furman To Meet Saturday

Coach Hal Barron, mentor of the Georgia Tech track squad, announced Sunday afternoon that the Jacket-Furman meet scheduled for Friday afternoon had been shifted to Saturday.

The change was made to permit the holding of a Tech Freshmen-G. M. A. meet Friday and to allow the feature meet to be better spotted on the week's sport program.

The card at the Flats calls for the two track meets with Jacket golfers entering the only other competition of the week as they play a match with Florida's links team at East Lake Saturday afternoon.

DOBBS PICKED BEST HITTER

some writer used that phrase that has since been adopted into our slang expressions, "Say it ain't so, Joe."

Connie Mack, when Jackson was with him, attempted to get him to go to school in winter but he wouldn't. There are many stories of his life in the minors. One of them relates how he and a catcher became friends on a ball club. The catcher was given his release. Joe Jackson came in and found his friend packing. Joe packed also and when the catcher went to the office for his papers Joe went along.

"If he goes, I go, too," said Jackson.

Jackson was hitting about .400 at the time and so the catcher stayed.

There is another story of Jackson, who did not reveal his inability to read, receiving a telegram while standing with another player, was also unable to read. Joe looked at his wire. "Look at that," he said, "handing it to the player. Ain't that tough?"

The other player took his look.

"It sure is," he said.

Many tricks were played on Jackson, because he was so naive. Ivy Wingo told of how the players would pretend to read a piece in the paper wherein it stated that Jackson was about to be released because he couldn't hit.

"He was hitting about .400 at the time," said Wingo, but he always fell for it. He'd get the paper later on and get me to look it over and see if it said he was about to be released.

"Joe was a great player and a right," said Wingo. "He never would have got into that trouble had he not been persuaded into it by the others. He never looked upon himself as a star, and he always thought that anything those he looked on as stars did was all right. He's doing well now and all of us who knew him are glad of it."

Jones To Assume 'Gator Post June 1

New Director of Athletics Is Ex-Grid Star; Bachman To Concentrate on Football.

GAINESVILLE, Fla., March 16.—(AP)—Edgar Jones, of Jacksonville, new director of athletics at the University of Florida will take over his new duties on June 1; it was learned in university circles tonight.

Announcement of the appointment of Jones to the post was made at a meeting of the state board of control at West Palm Beach late last night. Jones is a former gridiron star at Florida.

Charles Bachman, football coach at Florida for the past two years, was titular head of the athletic department, but requested that he be relieved of his duties with university athletic bureau so that he could devote all of his time to developing a football team.

Jimmie Boyd, also of Jacksonville, who has been assistant athletic director, was not reappointed by the state board of control.

Nash Higgins will continue as assistant football coach and head track and field mentor. Brady Cowell retains his position as freshman football coach and varsity basketball and baseball coach. Joe Pierson, who has been named in charge of intramural sports, although indications are that he is likely to aid in coaching basketball, as boxing instructor.

Frank S. Wright was retained as publicity director; Phil O'Connell, this year's ring captain, has been named boxing instructor. Dr. L. C. Haswell was held over as director of physical education with W. W. Burdett as assistant. Dr. J. A. Coles was named assistant trainer.

John Piombo was not reappointed as trainer for the football team, but no successor was named. He was reappointed as boxing instructor and one of his star pupils, Phil O'Connell, was chosen as boxing coach. Piombo, who came to the university in 1928, was the first Florida boxing team to win the championship of the Southern Conference.

James R. (Jimmie) Boyd, Jr., and Piombo, were the only two officials in the athletic department who failed to receive reappointment. It was understood here tonight that Boyd's most constant athletic director had been abolished. The board of control, it is understood, thought one man was able to handle the business and directorial affairs of the department.

O'Connell is slated to take over the duties of Piombo as boxing coach next September.

Van Sickle's appointment as a member of the coaching staff was for two years. He was named on the all-American football team in 1928, and was Florida star to make the mythical eleven.

ing to the proprietors of the battle pits.

FANS FADE.

Time was when Tony Canzoneri, the colorful little Italian ringmaster, could toss his gloves into the corner of the Madison Square Garden ring and turn to face a packed house, almost without regard to his opposition. Yet last night only 9,500 of the steady customers turned out to see him battle Stan Loyan, one of the toughest of the lightweight crop.

Less than a week ago a charity show, featuring Maxey Rosenberg and Larry Johnson, two of the best of the light-heavyweight crop, was pushed to the limit to draw 15,000 inmates to the Garden for a struggle that ended in a foul in the sixth round. Two other bouts on the same ended in disqualifications. One week earlier a heavyweight production, featuring Ted Sarawina, a Russian, Ricardo Bertozola, played to 9,500 paying guests the day before the Garden dropped $25,000 on its annual winter venture in Florida, another "fair or foul" stalling.

While the customers seem to be drifting away in large quantities in New York, where the small fight clubs, incubators of the future stars, have almost ceased to exist financially, the reports from other sections are equally discouraging.

FIRST PROFIT.

Boston Madison Square Garden, step-child of the New York fistic edifice, reported its first profit in six shows when Tuffy Griffiths and Al Friedman battled there a week ago. Jack Dempsey is believed to have dropped his promotional ventures entirely in Chicago, following a loss of $60,000 within a few months.

The opening triumphs of the Detroit Olympia and Chicago's magnificent stadium have lapsed into ordinary exhibitions of interest. In the smaller centers, the only fellow who seems capable of packing the houses is Primo Carnera.

Worse even than the apathy of the customers, from the viewpoint of the heavy investor in cauldrons, is the steadily increasing opposition to boxing laws in the realms of the legislators. "Foul" controversies, such as followed the poultry show in Miami, admittedly are adding strength to the advocates for repeal of the Walker law under which boxing is controlled in New York state. The harshest effort in recent years to wipe out legalized fisticuffs is expected at the next session of the New York state legislators.

Tilden Wins Three Titles in Net Meet

NICE, France, March 16.—(AP)—Three championships in the southern France tennis tournament today fell into the hands of Big Bill Tilden, veteran Philadelphia player.

Tilden won the singles title by defeating Lytleton Rogers, Irish Davis Cup player, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-2, 6-3.

He then paired with Wilbur F. Cox of Kansas City, to capture the doubles championship, beating the Japanese, Satou and Takeichi Harada, in a hard fought five-set match, 6-2, 6-4, 6-8, 7-6, 6-1.

The mixed doubles title went to Tilden and his German partner, Cecilie Aussem, through a 6-4, 6-0 victory over Elizabeth Ryan, former American now living in England, and Charles Kingsley, of England.

The women's title went to Mme. Simone Mathie, of France, who defeated Miss Ryan, 6-4, 7-5.

Gotham Toreador Loses Go to Bull

MADRID, March 16.—(AP)—Sydney Franklin, bullfighter of Brooklyn, N. Y., was gored by a bull today at his second appearance of the year in the Madrid arena. Doctors said his condition was serious.

Franklin drew a large crowd to the arena and received a great welcome on killing his first bull. The second bull was an unusually large and fierce one, but Franklin attempted to play a few fancy tricks with it.

He was caught off guard by a sudden charge of the bull, which got its horns into his thigh. He fell to the ground unconscious.

Dr. Segovia gave him first aid at the arena dispensary.

front of the driver. Just inside of it and almost concealed, is the only extraneous bit the car contains—a medal of St. Christopher, patron saint of the traveler, who is the protector of automobilists.

The car is water-cooled, carrying 71 gallons of water for its cooling system. To this is added 350 pounds of ice, carried in a great chamber in the hood, protruding nose of the car. The ice serves the double purpose of cooling and furnishing ballast for the front end.

The underbody construction has taken into consideration the possibility of the car swerving from its course and going into the ocean.

The entire under side is sheathed with a solid sheet of steel, presenting a flat plane to any water surface it might encounter. It is believed this would serve to keep the car from overturning in the event of a plunge into the surf.

The car has three speeds. As it is geared at 60 it has a maximum speed of 125 miles per hour in low gear, 170 miles per hour in second gear, and 248 in high gear.

This gearing may be changed to permit even higher speeds. There were rumors that something of the kind was being done today but mechanics said otherwise, although admitting it would not be difficult to do.

Eight Meets Face Bulldogs on Track

Georgia Opens Slate Against Furman on March 29—New Athens Plant To Be Used.

ATHENS, Ga., March 16.—The University of Georgia 1930 track schedule announced here today calls for the Bulldog cinder artists to compete in eight southern track meets, three of the meets to be held outside of Athens, while the remaining ones are to be held in the new Georgia athletic plant now nearing completion on old Sanford field.

The schedule is as follows:
March 29—Furman in Athens.
April 1—Presbyterian college in Athens.

April 5—Clemson college in Athens.
April 12—Tech relays in Atlanta.
April 19—Auburn in Athens.

April 26—Atlanta Athletic Club meet in Atlanta.
May 3—Georgia Tech in Athens.
May 16-17—Southern conference meet in Birmingham, Ala.

The meet here will be contested on Georgia's brand-new track plant, which is rapidly being rounded into shape for the first meet of the year, which will be against Furman Saturday, March 29.

Georgia now boasts of a splendid athletic plant extending for a quarter of a mile, from Lumpkin street on the west to the railroad tracks east of Sanford stadium. Beginning at Lumpkin street the new baseball park, which formerly was used by the football, baseball and track teams, has been remodeled, the diamond positions have been changed about and the field is expected to be in good shape for the opening baseball game, part of old Sanford field having been for use as a cinder path.

An oval 440 track has been laid out and places have been provided inside the track for the weight contests, the pole vault, high and broad jumps, and the hurdles. The last part of Georgia's new plant is Sanford stadium, home of the football team.

The ranks of the Bulldog cinder-men have been badly depleted from last year, every sprinter on last year's

Hunt, 'Pa' Stribling Pass Through City

Babe Hunt, the "Oklahoma Gusher" and a heavyweight contender, passed through Atlanta Sunday afternoon on his way to Florida, where he is to face Knute Hansen, the big Dane, Thursday night. Babe was accompanied by Buck Anderson, Doc Jones, Earl Lynn, Wilbur Jones and Sims.

Hunt was in distinguished company, as "Pa" Stribling was also numbered among those who paid flying visits to the city Sunday. "Pa" did a bit of talking, a bit of looking around, and went on his way again.

Labor Unions Will Not Stop South's Growth, Says Green

BY RICHARD WOODS EDMONDS.

Curious to know what William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, would say to the general impression that his organization plans are likely to slow down the south's industrial development, I put the question to him direct. "One big factor in the rapid rise of industries in the south," I said, "has been the peaceful, friendly relations between employer and employee. There are still tens of thousands of people living on farms but eager for factory jobs. If you replace industrial tranquility by industrial strife, thereby slowing down the development of industries in the section, what will it do to those people who need jobs so badly?"

Mr. Green replied that "labor has much to gain through being a component part of a prosperous community. On the other hand, it is responsible for its own progress of enlightenment and self-interest." And he said also, "Labor believes the way out of the farmers' problems lies rather in the improvement of the farmer than in their own prosperity than in continually draining off a supply of workers for factories who are willing to work for wages that permit only very low standards of living. The organization being developed under the farm board ought to provide the means for betterment of the farmer to work for them to learn the progress of enlightenment and self-interest."

But wages have increased in the south. I have examined the pay rolls of one mill that has a long record of operation and have seen that in the early days it was $3 to $4 per week. Today, in the same mill, they are at least four times that high on the average, six to seven times as high for the best-paid groups, and the living conditions in the village have improved commensurately. The case of the textile industry in the south is a force of natural economic law. Had there been a union in the textile industry during those years, it would certainly have claimed full credit.

Mr. Green also suggested that high wages would benefit the farmers of the south as well as all others, by increasing the purchasing power of the large wage-earning group. There, of course, he is on very firm ground—out to a certain point. The question is, how high can wages go without becoming a boomerang for the whole section, wage-earners included? Shall the level be determined by the free play of supply and demand, or shall arbitrary methods be tried? For England workers resorted to the latter, and while I believe I can prove that, when measured by purchasing power, their wages are higher than the full-time wages of the south, their actions in other particulars were so unreasonable that the net result was the loss to the south of the large portion of which migrated to new mill buildings in the south, while the balance was scrapped. Thousands of jobs have thus been opened to workers in the south that they would otherwise have gone to New England. There is plenty of food for thought in Mr. Green's suggestion that the farmers of the south are still bearing on their shoulders the double burden of the old slavery system and present competition with cheap negro labor, and in a less degree the industrial workers along with all the rest of the section are helping to carry the load. I doubt that any one group can slide out from under.

Seeking Opinions. For weeks past I have been corresponding with leading manufacturers in the south on the effect on the effect that attempts at organization will have upon expansion of industry, and some of them have written me very interesting letters which I would like to quote so long as I do not identify their authors.

card would get the holder a job in any strange city. A regular day of labor would be required to work out such an idea, but it is worth consideration. The south is the place to carry it through, the present is a peculiarly appropriate time, and its success would be one of the greatest contributions of all ages to industrial tranquility.

OUT BANK RATES TO AID BUSINESS

BY CLAUDE JAGGER.

Associated Press Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, March 16.—(AP)—As the past week brought the first quarter near its close with few visible signs of the expected spring quickening of business activity, the federal reserve system administered what it hoped may prove an effective spring remedy by reducing the New York discount rate from 4 to 3 1/2 per cent.

Opinion as to the probable effects of the lower rate are varied, but there is a dominant feeling that it will be widely helpful. It is scarcely expected that it will cause an immediate quickening of activity. Such was not the case when the rate was reduced to 3 1/2 per cent in August of 1927. One of the most conspicuous results at that time, however, was an increase in new security offerings.

The bond market responded to the lower rate with an immediate burst of strength. Flotation of new issues has undoubtedly been facilitated, and so far as railways, public utilities and municipal governments will be able to take advantage of the better market in the immediate future, some of the expansion plans for the longer term have been aided.

There is a feeling, however, that improvement in building outside of heavy construction, will be gradual. Residential buildings have been at a low ebb for some time, and despite the improvement in the bond market, the improvement in the building market, which appeared in its March bulletin, the National City bank forecasting a very slow growth in the amount of funds available for building, because of the reduction of savings accounts and large borrowings on insurance policies. Furthermore, conservative investors so close at hand that they make a request his first thought is how it can be gratified. But when a union, with outside leaders to speak for it, and its members, six to seven times as high for the best-paid groups, and the living conditions in the village have improved commensurately. The case of the textile industry in the south is a force of natural economic law. Had there been a union in the textile industry during those years, it would certainly have claimed full credit.

Too Few Quality. Unfortunately, many employers cannot qualify under the above definition. The city is still a labor market. In their eyes the only good employer is the one who grants all their demands. There ought to be some way to fully safeguard the interests of labor without bringing in this disturbing element and penalizing the good employers and the whole community along with it. While unions are still few and far between in the south, much there not be an opening for an entirely different sort of labor organization? I have in mind a suggestion often made for a union that would admit to membership only the most skillful and energetic workers, and that would require its members to constantly live up to the high standards by which they gained admission.

Such a union would not seek to shelter shirkers and incompetents, or to reduce the productivity and limit the earnings of its strongest to those of its weakest. In business depression, they predict a satisfactory job, members of such a union would always be in demand. A membership card would get the holder a job in any strange city. A regular day of labor would be required to work out such an idea, but it is worth consideration. The south is the place to carry it through, the present is a peculiarly appropriate time, and its success would be one of the greatest contributions of all ages to industrial

Lieutenant Albert Werper, after six months of loneliness in the Belgian Congo, was in a dangerous mood. Because he had dishonored his family name, the young man had been banished from the gay life of Brussels. Now, in this isolated section of Africa, he brooded over his monotonous existence until his hatred towards his superior officers had become a form of mania.

Nervously fingering his revolver, Lieutenant Werper's eyes narrowed and his brows contracted. At last he spoke: "You've insulted me for the last time." He sprang to his feet as did the Captain, upon whose face was an expression of surprise as he turned towards his junior, though he had often seen men with this jungle madness upon them, the madness of solitude and brooding.

ELECTION CHANGE PLAN BEFORE COUNCIL TODAY

Berman's Paper Seeks To Simplify Elections and Eliminate Ward Politics.

Proposals to simplify city elections and to eliminate ward politics, "lame ducks" and other objectionable features will come before council at 2 o'clock this afternoon when Councilman Joseph E. Berman, of the fourth ward, will introduce several resolutions, one of which, if accepted by council and the democratic executive committee, will affect the 26 members of council and force them to run again before the entire city.

The movement, according to Mr. Berman, is an effort to eliminate ward politics. The resolution will seek the election of members of council by a vote of all citizens in the borough of Atlanta to be held in a referendum to be added to the democratic primary slated to be held sometime next September.

In addition to the referendum paper Mr. Berman will present another, bearing the approval of a committee of council, requesting the democratic executive committee to hold borough elections between September 1 and November 1 of each year, in an effort to eliminate "lame duck" officials in the municipal government.

Another measure will seek to establish a permanent registration list and provide that registration lists shall be available to any person 15 days before any election at a nominal cost of $5, eliminate voting by certificate except in bond elections and embody several other minor features.

Among other matters to be considered will be the opening of bids for the reconstruction of the southern span of the Forsyth street viaduct, and the consideration of the voluntary retirement of Councilmen Harry York and William E. Saunders and Alderman J. E. Turner, all under

LaGuardia Demands Ship Board Probe

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(UN)—Representative LaGuardia, republican, New York, today demanded an investigation of the shipping board's dealings with the Export Steamship Company, charging that the government has paid $140,000 for mail on government ships chartered to the company which should have been carried for $2,500.

In a letter to Comptroller General McCarl, a copy of which was sent to President Hoover, the New Yorker declared the arrangement between the board and the company "is an unconscionable disregard of the provisions of the merchant marine act if not a deliberate violation of the law."

"I find that the shipping board has chartered 15 steamers to the Export Steamship Company on a monthly basis," LaGuardia wrote, "and the said steamship company is receiving from the postoffice department for each contract mail trip more than five to seven times the amount that it is required to pay the board and is not carrying any first class mail."

"Not by the widest stretch of the imagination can it be held that these chartered steamers are entitled to a mail contract when they do not carry first class mail."

"Such interpretation of the merchant marine act is not for the benefit of an American citizen, but is solely for the purpose of squandering millions of dollars in the giving of gratuities to favorite ship owners."

Wear Stockings Or Starve! Girls Take to Dieting

MADISON, Wis., March 16.—(UN)—The ultimatum that University of Wisconsin co-eds must "wear stockings or starve" caused a number of stubborn, bare-legged belligerents to be on a self-enforced diet today.

Petitions of protest were in circulation most of the day but they failed to induce Miss Elizabeth Baker, hostess at Barnard dormitory, to withdraw her order that all girls must have stockings on at meal times to gain admittance to the dining hall.

Co-eds, who insisted hoarsely, or the lack of it, should not enter into the matter of etiquette, were just as firm in going forward with both stockings and meals.

The situation seemingly had reached an impasse tonight, with a number of the girls battling healthy appetites and trying to decide whether they would rather lose by gaining or gain by losing.

Warm, Cloudy Weather Seen For City Today

After an almost perfect spring day, the weather man Sunday night predicted that it will be cloudy today with the probability that there will be a shower or two Tuesday. The temperature will continue mild.

Sunday it ranged from a low of 48 to a high of 68 and motorists, meaning to everyone who owns a gasoline driven car, was on the road. Atlanta's 68 for the day compared favorably with Tampa and Miami and was even more springlike than the Jacksonville range. Asheville never went above 68 and touched a low of freezing.

Dr. Blocker Quits Post at Furman

GREENVILLE, S. C., March 16.—(AP)—Dr. D. J. Blocker, for the past five years head of the department of sociology at Furman University, has resigned to become professor of sociology at William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va.

Dr. Blocker came to Furman from Rome, Ga., where he had been president of Shorter college for several years. He is a graduate of Seton and Chicago Universities.

MAN IS ARRESTED FOR ATTACKING GIRL

A. B. Palmer, 30, of 171 Cain street, was lodged at police headquarters Sunday after his capture in Austell by four Atlanta detectives, on a charge of having attacked an eight-year-old girl of a Luckie street address, at his own home Saturday afternoon.

Palmer was captured by Detectives John Lowe, Neal Ellis, L. D. Cody, and R. L. Burden, who were sent to Austell under orders by Chief of Detectives A. Lamar Poole. The man was found in the home of his sister-in-law and was taken after the house had been surrounded. Chief Poole stated Sunday night that he had in his possession a written confession from Palmer, admitting that he had attacked the girl.

Frank Estill, reserve mail pilot for Southern Air Transport, Inc., at Candler Field, Sunday was given a demonstration of the value of the airmail network with which he is connected. Estill's wife, who is in Rochester, Minn., for the time being, Saturday afternoon indicated a letter to her husband and dropped it into a mail box. The missive reached Minneapolis in due course and left there according to the postmark, at 11:30 o'clock, Saturday night, Sunday afternoon, shortly after the arrival of the Interstate ship from Chicago at 10:10 o'clock, the letter was placed in Estill's hands. This is just an isolated case of day in and day out service, but presents a graphic picture of the time-saving transportation of which business houses are taking more and more advantage.

The Aero Club of Atlanta, chapter of the National Aeronautic Association, is looking for a capacity crowd at Ansley Cave at 12:30 o'clock this afternoon, when, in conjunction with one of its regular meetings, it will show a two-reel motion picture entitled "Happy Landings." This film, which among other things shows a jumper plunging 3,000 feet in space before his chute opens and an escape by parachute from a plane in a tail spin, is said to be a real "knockout." Members and others interested are urged to make reservations as early this morning as possible by calling Secretary William A. Dunlap at Walnut 2357.

Another big crowd turned out Sunday to see the operations of the Atlanta Glider Club out on Campbellton road. Not quite as big a throng as the premiere last Sunday afternoon, but a representative gathering of the "glider-minded." Until 5 o'clock, when the wind died down to a whisper and the club's machine was becalmed, several as early this morning as possible by calling Secretary William A. Dunlap at Walnut 2357.

RAILROAD PIONEERS Dies in Virginia

WAYNESBORO, Va., March 16.—(AP)—Captain William Abbot Pratt, 80, prominent citizen of Waynesboro and pioneer civil engineer in railroad work on the North American continent, died at his home here today following an illness of double pneumonia.

As a civil engineer Captain Pratt was employed in the construction of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad system, and laid the first railroad line in Alaska. His engineering work also carried him through Mexico and Canada. He was a captain in the engineers corps of the United States army during the Spanish-American war.

Captain Pratt was a native of Richmond, Va., and is survived by his widow and five nieces and nephews.

Keep Honesty, Experience, Progress on County Board

VOTE Wednesday Etheridge Gilbert Hendrix

A lot of slush and buncomb is being published by a united opposition ticket seeking election on the County Board. This anonymous undercurrent of political propaganda is totally untrue and reflects discredit on the County which they assert they are so eager to serve, and yet which they do not hesitate to slander.

Dr. Wm. L. Gilbert, Chairman; Mr. Walter C. Hendrix, Vice Chairman, and Mr. Paul S. Etheridge, Chairman of the Public Works Committee, are seeking re-election and are conducting a clean, honorable campaign based on progressive policies, their KNOWN INTEGRITY, and their long experience in County affairs.

Every element of public life and every section of the County has been given an impartial administration under a majority of the members of the Board as now constituted.

It is manifestly unfair to honest public officials, whose record for constructive service is an open book, to remove them from office and replace them with totally inexperienced men, when those men would constitute a majority of the Board in absolute control of Fulton County, the greatest and richest institution in the South-east.

Financial affairs of Fulton County are in excellent condition. On December 31, 1929, according to the latest audit of the CERTIFIED PUBLIC ACCOUNTANT, the County had cash in Atlanta banks $1,500,000, owned in fee simply property conservatively estimated at $3,000,000, uncollected taxes $1,500,000, making total assets of approximately $6,000,000.

Fulton County does not owe a single penny in BONDED INDEBTEDNESS.

Today the County is entirely free from debt except for a temporary loan authorized by law, which is less than half of this year's estimated income. Since all County taxes are payable in December, the law wisely authorizes temporary loans for current expenses to be repaid out of taxes when received.

During 1929, the County spent $514,813.16 less than its income.

"The County is in excellent condition," report Respass & Respass, Certified Public Accountants, who audit the County books.

No group of men has ever dealt more fairly with the people than have Messrs. Etheridge, Gilbert and Hendrix. Their record of past performances, not based on campaign pledges, assures the same fidelity to duty and honest administration of County affairs will go forward in the future.

Your schools; your streets and roads; your sanitary system; your fire and police protection—in fact all public improvements which come under the functions of government have been generously sustained and admirably administered.

On behalf of Fulton County, more than in their behalf, you are earnestly requested to use your influence and cast your vote for them Wednesday, March 19.
